

MEN KEPT UNDER A GUARD

Calhoun Has About 300 Strike Breakers Shut Up to Prevent Desertion.

MANY GO OVER TO UNION RANKS

Mayor Schmitz Continues His Negotiations for a Settlement, and Interests Are at Work to Prevent Conflict.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—Negotiations toward a settlement of the carmen's strike on the United Railroads, now in its second week, were resumed this afternoon by Mayor Schmitz and continued late into the night, but without results. Several interests are being invoked to bring about a settlement and prevent a protracted industrial conflict.

It is expected that the United Railroads will attempt to run cars tomorrow.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 3.—According to passengers on north bound trains, the twenty-four carloads of strike breakers who were rushed through this city early this morning to Benicia and then brought back, and at 11 o'clock started south, were sidetracked at Galt, thirty miles south of Sacramento. At Galt the men left the cars and were having a merry time. About 200 of them claim to be union men and declared their intention of deserting Enley as soon as they reach San Francisco. The strike breakers expect to stop in Galt until morning.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—All day, crowds of strikers and sympathizers, who numbered from 1000 to 3000, surrounded the United Railroad car houses at 25th and Mission streets in which were housed about 300 strike breakers, who arrived over the Southern Pacific coast line at 4 o'clock this morning. Escorted by guards, the men marched from the Valencia street station to the car house in a body. It is said the engineer of the special train tied down the whistle cord of his engine at the San Mateo county line and blew a continuous blast all the way to the city, to apprise the union pickets of the coming of the strike breakers.

Pickets were on hand to receive the imported men but made no demonstration, contenting themselves with inviting the new comers to the union camp and promising them union wages at whatever trade they knew. Seventeen of the strike breakers left out of the ranks on the march from the station to the car house and went over to the striking carmen. A large crowd gathered at the car house soon after daylight, and the number increased as the day advanced. Despite the efforts of the guards to keep the crowd at a distance, and prevent the men in the barn from leaving, there were frequent desertions throughout the day. Some slipped out of the doors, and one past the guards, others let down a rope from a second story by which four got away before this means of escape was discovered by the guards.

Each man who left the barn was greeted with noisy acclamation by the crowd surging about the building. About 10 o'clock a fight ensued between the strike breakers and some of the guards, who were forcibly trying to prevent their departure. The crowd, which until then had been good natured in their demonstration, suddenly became threatening. Stones began to fly in answer to a call for reinforcement by the police on duty at the car house. Corporal Shanahan and ten privates were taken from the escort of the labor parade and hurried to the scene. Many women in the mob were scarcely less active than the men and boys. A committee of the striking carmen counseled against violence, and assisted the police in suppressing disorder. A funeral procession came in sight. The noise ceased suddenly and the disorderly throng respectfully made a line for the procession, and remained quiet and peaceable until it had passed.

Similar scenes on a smaller scale were enacted at the other barns, where strike breakers were housed. It is claimed that about forty men who deserted the non-union ranks during the day were taken care of by the carmen and will be provided with work. A number of the strike breakers, it is said, were taken to the hotels by the union and their bills paid in advance for a week. Some of these were sent back to the car barns as missionaries to persuade the strike breakers to return.

President Calhoun has so far preserved silence as to the date of the company's first attempt to run the cars with non-union men but it is believed that the United Railroads is preparing now to make the first experiment, as it has men enough in town to handle a considerable number of cars.

Preparing for the Fight.

of the entire country for industrial peace.

He stated that no cars would be run tomorrow morning, but declared he had men enough now to take out a number of cars and indicated that an attempt to do so might be made tomorrow afternoon. The mayor had a conference with the police commissioners tonight at which plans were made for the disposal of the police when the United Railroads attempt to run cars with strike breakers. Beyond saying that peace would be preserved, the mayor refused to say what action had been decided upon, or whether policemen would be placed on the cars.

STATE FAIR REPORT SHOWS SMALL DEFICIT

Number of Protests Considered Against Certain Awards of Prizes.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 3.—Secretary J. A. Filcher of the State Agricultural Society estimates the expenses of the state fair at about $8000. The receipts aggregated $7250, which would leave a deficit of $750. About $2000 was spent on prizes that it was necessary to make up, and had it not been for this there would have been a surplus.

Secretary Filcher and Director Wm. Land today considered a number of protests against various awards. C. M. Gilford of San Diego protested against the awarding of the first prize for olives to the American Olive company of Los Angeles, and A. M. Meister and Sons of Sacramento protested against the award of first prize for best carriage to A. E. Rowman of Sacramento. It appears that the time honored plan of distributing prizes so that every exhibitor might get one, was followed.

An Alameda county company protested against the award of first prize for paints to a competitor. They claim that they showed real paint, whereas their competitor showed only tin cans.

POLISH SOCIALISTS ARE IN BIENNIAL CONVENTION

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—The biennial convention of the Polish Socialist Alliance of America is being held here. It has the twofold purpose of spreading the propaganda of socialism in this country and furthering the agitation for free and united Poland. It is said that nearly every state in the Union is represented. More than 700 local organizations of various kinds are said to be connected with the alliance.

Cruiser Boston Aground. SEATTLE, Sept. 3.—The cruiser Boston went aground on Orcas island in the San Juan group in a fog today while on the way to the Strait of Georgia or target practice. The cruiser was pulled off at high tide, according to dispatches to the Post Intelligence and is apparently uninjured.

CELEBRATING LABOR DAY

FIFTEEN HUNDRED UNION MEN PARADED IN SACRAMENTO, MOST OF THEM IN UNIFORM.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 3.—Labor day was fittingly observed in this city by the bodies of organized labor. In the morning a parade in which 1500 men of the Federated Trades and Building Trades Unions took part, was viewed by multitudes in holiday attire. Most of the unionists turned out in uniform, and the showing made was very creditable.

In the afternoon literary exercises were held at the old pavilion, Alfred Dutton, Jr., president of the Federated Trades Council, presiding. The oration was delivered by Walter MacArthur of San Francisco. There was good music and a tug-of-war between teams of the building trades and the federated trades. The federated trades won. In the evening a grand ball was given.

Cornerstone of Labor Temple. LOS ANGELES, Sept. 3.—Commercial Los Angeles was a holiday air in honor of Labor day, and the labor unionists celebrated the occasion when the parade through the business streets which brought out a large number of representatives of the various trades. After the parade, the unionists met at the Chutes park, where a holiday program of sports and entertainment was carried out.

The cornerstone of the projected labor temple was laid with the customary ceremony, after the morning parade. It is estimated that more than 10,000 men participated in the parade.

The Japanese of Southern California held a celebration at Venice with national games and other features. This attraction drew an immense crowd to that beach resort.

San Francisco's Parade. SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—Twenty thousand union men paraded from Van Ness avenue down Market street to the ferry today and crossed the bay to Shell Mound Park. Across the bay they were joined by several thousand of the Alameda county mechanics, with whom they held a joint celebration. Addresses were made by a number of labor leaders.

Founder of Labor Day. PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—The dedication of a monument to the late P. J. McGuire, organizer of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America was the feature of the observance of Labor day in this city. The inscription on the monument is "The Founding of Labor Day."

JOE GANS IS VICTOR IN THE 42d ROUND

Colored Fighter Had Best of the Contest When Awarded Decision On a Foul

LONGEST AND BEST BATTLE SEEN ANYWHERE IN MANY YEARS—CONTEST A DESPERATE CONFLICT FOR VICTORY IN WHICH BOTH MEN WEARIED THEMSELVES, AND NELSON IN SPITE OF WARNINGS, CONTINUALLY "BUTTED" HIS OPPONENT—SYMPATHY OF THE THOUSANDS OF SPECTATORS WAS WITH THE NEGRO, WHO BROKE HIS RIGHT HAND IN THE THIRTY-THIRD ROUND—DECISION ALMOST UNIVERSALLY APPROVED.

ARENA, GOLDFIELD, Nev., Sept. 3.—Battling Nelson, deliberately called Joe Gans in the forty-second round of the best and longest fight seen anywhere in many years. Both men were tired when the fight ended, but Gans was apparently the stronger. He was away ahead in points, and had smashed and cut Nelson all through the fight, without being badly hurt himself. Shortly after the forty-second round commenced, the men were in their usual clinch. Nelson had his head on Gans' shoulder and his arm down. Several times he hit Gans below the belt, apparently feeling for a vital spot. At last he drew back his right arm and hit Gans a vicious blow square in the groin. The colored boy sank to his knees and rolled over on his back. Referee Siler without hesitation ordered Nelson to his corner, and awarded the fight to Gans on a foul. Siler's decision received almost unanimous approval. The foul was so obvious that not even men who had bet on Nelson could say that it had not been committed. All through the long contest, Nelson had employed rough tactics. He repeatedly butted Gans and had to have his head hauled away by the referee.

Referee Siler stated to the Associated Press that while he would not say that the foul was intentional, there was no doubt but that it had been committed. Nelson, he said, had used his usual tactics all through the fight, and while he knew that Nelson was butting whenever he had an opportunity, he did not disqualify him for that because he saw that it was not hurting Gans, and as no other referee had ever disqualified Nelson for doing the same thing, he did not feel like doing it. Besides, the people were there to see the fight, and he did not want to disappoint them.

Siler was loudly cheered as he left the ring, as was Gans, who was carried to his dressing room. Nelson and his seconds were hissed as they departed. Billy Nolan, Nelson's manager, made a disconnected statement in which he said that Gans had promised not to claim the decision on a foul, and yet he jumped at the very first opportunity to make such a claim. All Nelson would say was that Gans was tired and quit.

Gans, in many ways, put up a most remarkable battle. Of course, his skill as a boxer was expected to be shown but his endurance surprised everyone. His work was the more wonderful when it is known that in the thirty-third round he broke his right hand. Never after that did he strike a blow with it with the exception of a few short arm jolts, while clinching. He did all his work with his left hand and put it all over Nelson.

Gans' generalship was shown when he broke his hand. In the thirty-third round, he landed a hard right hand punch on the side of Nelson's face. A bone in the hand snapped and Gans stepped back with an expression of pain. He limped around as if he had stepped on his foot and turned it, and no one realized that he had badly injured his right hand, although it was suspected that it might have been injured.

Gans stated after the fight that Nelson intentionally fouled him. He said he knew he could finish Nelson as he was comparatively strong and Nelson was growing weaker all the time.

"Larry" Sullivan announced for Gans that he would meet Nelson in two weeks in another fight, as he was sure he could whip him and did not want to take advantage of the foul. It is hardly probable, however, that the men will meet again in that time. Gans explained his course of battle by saying that he did not want to box Nelson for fear of tiring himself. He found early in the game that he could protect himself in the clinches, and also realized that the danger in fighting that way was much less than in showy boxing. He was hitting Nelson all the time, and maneuvering so as to make the Dane do most of the work.

The first fifteen rounds of the fight were very fast. After that the men slowed up and only at intervals was there a rally. Although Gans was far ahead of Nelson in points and most of the time looked like a sure winner, Nelson put up a wonderful fight on his side. The endurance and recuperative powers shown by Nelson were extraordinary. Time after time, Gans would jolt him on the jaw, sending the Dane back. His knees would bend and his eyes became glazed, but he always fell into a clinch, and held on, and then would come back fighting as hard as ever in his peculiar rough style. The minute's rest in the corner always did him good, and he would come up fresh and strong. On nearly half a dozen occasions, when it seemed another blow would put the white boy out, the going was saved him. On several occasions, however, Nelson apparently had the advantage. He would hit Gans and they broke from a clinch and the colored boxer would hang on and wrestle. Gans fought a remarkably clean fight. He was fair in everything, and twice, when he knocked Nelson down, picked him up. One time when one of Gans' punches knocked Nelson through the ropes, Gans picked him up and helped him to his feet. As the colored boy stood with his hands down, waiting for Nelson to steady himself, the latter gave him a vicious blow in the stomach. He was roundly hissed for this by the big crowd.

Although Goldfield is a mining camp, it is seldom that a more orderly crowd ever attended such a contest. There was no disturbance of any kind, and no rough language used.

Gans was undoubtedly the favorite with the people. His gentlemanly behavior won the admiration of the Goldfield people, and they showed it. Gans is a hero in Goldfield tonight.

The attendance was about 5000. Although estimates were made as high as 6500. The Goldfield Athletic club arrangements were perfect. There was not a hitch of any kind, and the fight could be seen from any portion of the arena. About 200 women were in attendance.

President Rickard stated tonight that the receipts for the fight amounted approximately to $78,000, and that the number of spectators at the ringside aggregated 7000.

SPORT LOVING VISITORS THROGGED GOLDFIELD

Every Able Bodied Man in Nevada That Could Escape His Business Was There and 3000 Men from Other States—Story of the Day.

SPORT LOVING. (Union-Register-Goldfield.) ARENA, Goldfield, Nev., Sept. 3.—That part of Goldfield which slept last night awoke early this morning to the bright sun, most perfect September day that can be imagined. At 8 o'clock nearly every resident of the mining town was on the main street to greet a throng of visitors that had swept in on the trains during the night. That busy artery of traffic was soon congested.

BUILDING TRADES THREATEN STRIKE

Demand is Made in Los Angeles for a Closed Shop and $4 a Day for Carpenters.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 3.—Should the employing contractors of Los Angeles hold firm in their refusal to grant the demands of the building trades, unionists for a closed shop, Saturday half holiday and $4 per day, labor leaders declare 2500 carpenters will strike tomorrow.

At present there is a deadlock between the employers, and labor leaders, the former reiterating their determination to fight the demands made upon them some time ago, while the latter declare unless they are allowed, the unionists will not resume work tomorrow.

It is stated by the labor leaders that 2000 carpenters and from 800 to 1000 bricklayers, plasterers and other mechanics will be involved in the threatened strike.

A COMPROMISE WITH INSURGENTS PROBABLE

Pressure Is Brought to Bear on President Palma to Heal Cuba's Woes.

HAVANA, Sept. 3.—Peace through political compromise is the sole topic of conversation today in all the best informed circles, where it is recognized that this is the only way of bringing about a settlement of Cuba's internal troubles. Therefore there is a general disposition not to agree with the stand taken by President Palma that the government should not treat with the insurgents upon the basis of arranging a compromise and the president is understood to have already modified his attitude to the extent that he has no objections to private negotiations on the subject. It is believed beyond further doubt that an attempt to reach peace through some compromise will now be made.

GOLDFIELD SUN IS STILL PUBLISHED

Mine Owners Require Merchants to Continue their Advertisements in Spite of Opposition.

GOLDFIELD, Nev., Sept. 3.—The Goldfield Sun appeared on the streets today, and in spite of the threats of the Industrial Workers of the World there has been no disturbance. The mine owners and citizens have taken the matter in hand, and a committee representing these two interests have notified the merchants that they are expected to advertise in the Sun in spite of the boycott declared by the union. If a merchant does not advertise in the paper, the committee has announced that it will take steps to compel them to.

and at 9 o'clock when the bands began to play the various holiday sports started up and the crowd was fairly awoken, the scene was one to thrill the most sluggish blood of strangers and "old timers" alike.

Every able-bodied man in the state that could escape his business in Goldfield today. Fully 3000 visitors from the East and West are also here. At the restaurants and places of refreshment it is impossible to get served without waiting in line. The crowd is of the most cosmopolitan character. Men of note in the world of literature, art, finance, mining, sport and the other great fields of activity are rubbing elbows and struggling for places of vantage with the rough looking miners and the most peculiar gathering of human foibles and foetuses that ever added color to the lively scenes of a mining camp. Goldfield is literally overrun. It is delicious with excitement. Nearly every sporting man in town believes that the fight will be fair and it is believed generally that it will prove one of the greatest and most spectacular fights ever held in the world, regardless of class. The betting is strong with so much Gans money in sight that the odds are going to 10 to 6 on the colored fellow.

Shortly before noon the deadlock that has previously existed in the betting for two or three days, owing to both sides holding out for prices was broken. Money began to change hands rapidly and in most cases bets were made at odds of 10 to 8 with the negro favorite. The San Francisco delegation that arrived early this morning on special trains has a preponderance of Gans money to wager, and it looks as if they will be accommodated by the short end.

ARENA, Goldfield, Nev., Sept. 3.—1:30 p. m.—Both Nelson and Gans weighed in a second time at 1:30 o'clock. Neither one of them juggled the beam. They both wore the garb they will use in the contest. President Rickard has just announced that the actual size of the purse is $34,500, to be divided in the following manner: Nelson to get $22,500 and Gans $11,000. Nolan would not agree to fight until this amount was insured him. This agreement has been kept until the present time as Rickard did not wish to interpret any more wrangles than already have been happening.

Looking over the crowds there appears to be about 200 women present. They do not seem to be of the type one would expect to see at such an event but on the contrary appear to be women of refinement. They are accompanied in some instances by escorts and conduct themselves as though present at some theatrical performance.

Among those conspicuously seated around the ring are Nat Goodwin, the actor; Senator Nixon of Nevada, the Clark of Montana; Jimmy Britt, W. L. Brit, Harry Corbett, Jimmie Corbett, Eddie Hanlon, Tim McGrath, Jack Grant and his brother Peter; Jack Welch, Eddie Graney, Colonel Martin Brady and many others prominent in banking and social circles in San Francisco.

Betting is freely indulged in at the ringside at odds of 10 to 7 with the negro favorite.

Clifford Knocked Out Lundie. ARENA, Goldfield, Nev., Sept. 3.—Jack Clifford of Montana knocked out Bob Lundie of San Francisco in the second round of a scheduled ten-round bout. It was a rattling fight. The men were at each other hammer and tongs in the first and Clifford had Lundie groggy when the bell rang. In the second round Lundie was floored with a right hook to the jaw. He took the point of nine but when he arose Clifford swung his right foot to the jaw and Lundie went down again and stayed there, completely knocked out.

GOLDFIELD, Sept. 3. 2:30 p. m.—There is much betting going on around the ring. Bets are offered at 100 to 70 on Gans. Nelson money, however, is scarce.

After the brief but interesting preliminary contest between Lundie and Clifford the crowd settled down for a three-quarters of an hour wait for the last sun. A brisk breeze tempered the heat a bit and the people gathered in the arena gasped about the fight and listened to the poddlers bawling their wares about the arena. It is mostly Gans money and the betting offers of $10,000 and $20,000 did not meet with any response.

Sewer Laborer Smothered to Death. LOS ANGELES, Sept. 3. George Litzels, a sewer laborer, lost his life today at 55th street and Central avenue. He was buried twice by caving in of earth. The first time fellow workmen rescued him, but when the second caving occurred they failed to extricate him before he was choked and smothered to death.

EVIDENCE TO WARRANT SEVERAL ARRESTS

Real Estate Trust Company Will Probably Never Again Open Its Doors.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—District Attorney Bell, with the aid of three assistants, today began an investigation of the affairs of the Real Estate Trust company, which failed last week. In his preliminary examination with Receiver Earle, Mr. Bell said he found evidence to cause several arrests, but he preferred to make a complete independent investigation of the company's affairs before obtaining warrants.

Mr. Bell said that he holds that any officer or director who had knowledge of Hipple's irregular transactions and took no action is criminally liable. It is believed the company will never resume business and that the percentage of money the depositors will receive will not be as large as was at first expected.

CONGRESSMAN LITTLE GOVERNOR OF ARKANSAS

Is Elected By a Majority of 90,000 Over His Republican Opponent.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 3.—In the biennial election in Arkansas for state and county officers partial returns received by the Gazette tonight indicate that Congressman Little, Democratic nominee for governor, will have a majority of 90,000 over John L. Worthington, Republican. The vote of John G. Adams, Prohibition nominee for governor, may not exceed 3000. Estimates tonight say that of the 135 members of the senate and house, at least 125 will be Democrats. The Democratic state nominees other than for governor had no opposition.

SULLIVAN KNOCKED DOUGHERTY OUT

Face of Milwaukee Lad Was Torn Into Ribbons, in Spite of His Aggressiveness.

BUTTE, Mont., Sept. 3.—Mike "Twin" Sullivan tonight knocked Jack Dougherty out in the 19th round of what was scheduled to be a twenty-round contest for the welter weight championship of the world. Dougherty at no time showed himself to be in Sullivan's class, the latter ripping in telling opponents that simply to see the face of the Milwaukee lad torn into ribbons. Dougherty was aggressive enough, but blows were ill judged and his gauging of distance at fault. Dougherty showed strong recuperative powers, being knocked down three times in the seventeenth round for the count of eight.

ATLANTIC SQUADRON

Reviewed By President Roosevelt on the Mayflower.

Fleet Commanded By Admiral Robley D. Evans Was in Finest Trim.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Sept. 3.—A salute of twenty-one guns greeted simultaneously by every fighting craft in a mighty fleet of two-score warships greeted President Roosevelt when he stepped on board the naval yacht Mayflower today to review what is believed to be the largest war fleet ever assembled in American waters. When the president stepped on board the Mayflower the great fleet lay in three columns, each about two miles in length with battleships and monitors in the center column, the cruisers and several other battleships in the off shore column, and a long line of torpedo boat destroyers stretched between the remainder of the fleet and the shore.

Half an hour before the arrival of the president, Secretary of the Navy Bonaparte boarded the Mayflower and was received with a salute by the marine guards and the rattle of drums. Following him came Postmaster General Cortelyou, who was also honored on the honorary dock.

The naval authorities representing foreign governments came on board the Des Moines and were transferred to the Mayflower in launches. Members of the naval committee of congress were also taken on board the Mayflower.

Followed by the cruiser Des Moines, which was devoted to the service of the foreign naval attaches, and by the Dolphin, also having guests on board, the Mayflower proceeded out of Oyster Bay to the head of the fleet off Lloyd's Neck, where the battleship Maine with Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans on board lay in the central position at the head of the fleet. The Dolphin and Des Moines took up their positions respectively at the head of the third and first columns, and the Mayflower passed down between the long lines of warships, while the roar of the president's salute of twenty-one guns again burst from the three-hundred guns of each warship as the Mayflower swept majestically past. Each ship in turn with salutes manning their yards and guns sounding, paid her tribute of honor to the commander-in-chief as the yacht passed up and down between the two lines made by the formation of the fleet, and then, having circled entirely about the fleet, anchored at the position of honor at the head of the central column.

FREMONT'S NAME IN HONOR

Aged Men Who Voted for Pathfinder Attend Meeting of Republican Clubs.

STATE LEAGUE IS NOW IN SESSION

Pardee, Gillett, Hayes and Other Candidates for State Office Among those in Attendance at the Convention.

SANTA CRUZ, Sept. 3.—Treading on a pathway of blossoms that were thrown before them by six little girls, half a hundred aged men who had voted for General Fremont for president of the United States in 1856, spectacularly entered the fifth biennial convention of the California State League of Republican clubs, which was begun in this city today. The veterans were vociferously cheered by the delegates to the convention, which marks the fiftieth anniversary celebration of the nomination of Fremont.

Local enthusiasm was added on account of the fact that Fremont had his home near here.

The address of welcome to the members of the convention was made by H. C. Lucas, resident of the Fremont club of Santa Cruz. At this juncture Governor Pardee, amid cheers, took a place on the platform. "Greetings to Fremonters," was the subject of an address by J. W. Linscott of this city. Responses were made by ex-Governor Salmon, of the state of Washington, and Grove L. Johnson.

Fred K. Butler, president of the State League of Republican clubs, gave the biennial address.

Judge Henry C. Dibble was named chairman of the committee on resolutions and W. H. Lyon chairman of the committee on credentials.

Tonight's session consisted of music and addresses. Among the speakers were Lee C. Gates of Los Angeles, T. R. Dozier of Shasta, Governor Pardee and W. N. Stafford, state commissioner of labor.

The election of officers will be held tomorrow.

President Rule announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election at the election to be held tomorrow. Railroad Commissioner Orrin K. Henderson and Mayor Thomas Rickard of Berkeley are aspirants for the office.

Nearly all the candidates for nomination before the state Republican convention, which opens here Wednesday, have arrived. Governor Pardee, Congressman James Gillett and J. O. Hayes of San Jose are on the ground and have opened headquarters. Their lieutenants are busily engaged in greeting delegates, and at all the three camps confidence is expressed.

District Attorney Frederick's friends are urging him to step into the fight for the governorship, and he may be the dark horse in case of a deadlock in the convention.

MEXICAN CONSPIRATORS ARRESTED IN ARIZONA

Letters Show that Plot Against Sonora Has Widely Extended Organization.

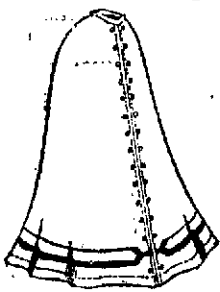

TUCSON, Ariz., Sept. 3.—Cullis Humbert, a Fremontian, and Leonard Villalobos and Arturo Trevina, Mexicans, were arrested today at Mowry and Patagonia, mining camps, where many Mexican miners are employed. The arrests were made by Immigration Inspector Murphy, and Rangers Ochs and Clark. It is charged that the men are agitators who were attempting to organize a force of Mexican miners to attack Nogales, Sonora and capture the customs house and the arsenal of the rurales. Letters found on the prisoners show that their plans were directed by Mexican revolutionist leaders in St. Louis. The letters also indicate that the revolutionists have organizations in forty camps and that they will become active as soon as they can secure arms. The arrested agitators are in jail in Nogales, Arizona.

ROBBERY THE OBJECT OF CONSPIRATORS

Governor Flore Arrested 150 Filipinos Implicated in Revolutionary Plot.

MANILA, Sept. 3.—A conspiracy has been suppressed in the province of Ilocos Norte, on the island of Luzon, by the prompt action of Governor Flore in arresting 150 Filipinos, said to be implicated. Documents were captured which showed that the Filipino brothers were the principal conspirators and watched the plot while serving a sentence in jail, where they enlisted the sympathy and support of fellow prisoners and commenced a revolutionary organization. The papers showed that while the followers organized ostensibly for a revolution, robbery was the real object.

LETTER CARRIERS IN CONVENTION

Business of Importance to Association is Transacted—Letter from Postmaster Short is Feature of Program—Day's Happenings Wind Up in Banquet, Where Speech-making and Merrymaking Put Fitting Climax to a Thoroughly Enjoyable Meeting.

The California State Association of Letter carriers met in convention yesterday in the Knights of Columbus hall. The morning session opened at 8 o'clock. After the presentation of credentials a reception was given the delegates.

D. S. Ewing made a few remarks in place of Mayor Lyon, who was expected to speak, but who was unavoidably called out of town.

George Turner then gave a few words of welcome in place of Postmaster Short, who was also out of town, at the end of which he read the following letter from Mr. Short to the association:

Fresno Hot Springs, Fresno Co., Cal. August 28, 1906.

To the California Branch of the National Association of Letter carriers:

Gentlemen:—I regret very much my inability to be present at your meeting in Fresno on September 3rd, owing to circumstances considerably more painful to myself than my absence will be to you.

I would greatly enjoy meeting you, and I could not fail to profit by an interchange of ideas with men so intelligent and so capable in the performance of the duties as my experience with the letter carriers of Fresno justifies me in believing you to be.

I am proud of the service performed by the letter carriers of the Fresno office, and of the esteem in which they are held as a body by the public which they serve.

It is doubtless true that similar happy relations prevail between the public and the letter carriers of California, throughout the state.

It is doubtful if any word of mine can be of particular interest or benefit to a body of men so well versed in their duties. My only desire in writing these few lines, beyond expressing my cordial good wishes and my appreciation of your presence in Fresno, is to impress upon you the great importance of your work and the serious responsibility you should feel in its performance.

No letter carrier who fully realizes the importance of his work can be careless and inefficient, unless he be unfit for this or any other responsible service.

To no other class of public servants, in any department of the government, has the people confided duties so personal to themselves, that more vitally affect their material welfare, or come so near to their hearts and hearthstones.

There is scarcely a day's work done by letter carrier, the faithful, intelligent performance of which does not involve the welfare of some one whom he serves.

Upon the prompt and correct delivery of a letter may hinge merely the loss or acquisition of money, of fortune, or position. It may involve issues of life or death or the precious boon of honor.

It may make or unmake the happiness of a life-time. The physical weight of any load of letters which the carrier places upon his shoulders is light compared with its weight of responsibility.

In it are messages dearer to the hearts of those to whom they are sent than gold or jewels—letters from far-away children to anxious parents and from parents to wandering children, fond letters from absent lovers, and letters of cheer and hope and friendship, the loss of which may cause anguish and suffering that may only be surmised.

The letter carrier who does not feel this responsibility, who has not at least an anxious desire to deliver every piece of mail which comes to him to the person for whom it is intended—even though he be not neglectful, but indifferent as to results and prefers a technicality to a right delivery—is unfit for his position.

He is better adapted to the arduous but less conscientious duties of conducting an ice wagon.

I am very glad to say that, so far as my knowledge goes, there are but few carriers of this kind. There should be none.

As to the address which your committee of program has seen fit to assign to me, the keen disappointment I feel in being unable to deliver the goods is considerably modified by the knowledge that it was immediately preceded on the program with an address by the honorable mayor of the city.

You will have been so fascinated by its eloquence of this address, so charmed by its wit and fascinated by its wisdom that you will have forgotten that my name is on the program until the trance in which you have been put by the mayor is rudely disturbed by the ringing of these regrets.

With assurances of my warm regard, I am,

Very sincerely yours,

(Signed) JOHN W. SHORT,

Postmaster of Fresno.

B. A. Dorland, president of the Fresno branch of carriers, also delivered an address of welcome.

Following which, National Vice President Elmer L. Smith of Santa Barbara addressed the convention on postal matters pertaining to the state association.

The seating of delegates and reading reports of the various officers and appointment of committees, finished the morning session. Oakland was the only city out for the 1908 convention seat.

The officers of the association and some of the delegates present were: President, E. K. Richards, Los Angeles; vice president, J. C. Daly, San Francisco; secretary, E. H. Osborn, Oakland; treasurer, D. J. Hallahan, Oakland; delegate-at-large, E. L. Smith, Santa Barbara.

Among the delegates present were: B. A. Dorland, Fresno; Chas. M. Herkenhoff and Wm. B. Green of Oakland; John C. Daly, Fred W. Fahrenholz, John J. Lane, Chas. F. Nell, E. Nylander and R. M. Roche of San Francisco; H. H. Strohly, A. K. Ely and W. H. Dredger of Los Angeles; W. A. Jones of Pasadena, E. G. Ayers of Hanford, Elmer L. Smith of Santa Barbara, E. C. Hibbs of Pomona, J. V. Goodman of Santa Rosa, James T. Redman of San Rafael, D. McIntosh of San Diego, A. C. Dennis of Marysville, George Villama of Palo Alto, P. G. Joy of Salinas, W. B. Green of Redlands, Will A. Crowley of Larkspur, E. S. Allen of Riverside, H. C. Packer of San Bernardino, E. W. Adams of Santa Cruz, A. J. Allen of Chico and many others.

Most of the afternoon session was spent in lively debates. No other cities being brought forward Oakland was unanimously chosen as convention city for 1908. D. J. Hallahan responding to the honor.

The fight for officers for the next two years was strong, finally ending in the election of President, J. C. Daly of San Francisco; vice-president, B. A.

Dorland of Fresno; secretary, E. H. Osborn of Los Angeles; treasurer, D. J. Hallahan of Oakland; delegate-at-large, Elmer L. Smith of Santa Barbara.

Meeting was then adjourned till the evening session.

The Banquet.

At exactly 8:30 o'clock the party sat down to a dinner, some forty guests being present.

The banquet was held in the main dining room of the Hughes, which had been set aside for the exclusive use of the association.

Two long tables set at right angles to the ends of one of equal length brought the guests together in such a manner as to be able comfortably to listen to the speakers.

Twelve ladies were present, all dressed in white and decorated with the convention badges, the same as worn by the delegates.

The speakers, all save two, with B. A. Dorland of Fresno, as toastmaster, were arranged in line at the cross table facing the other delegates and the ladies.

Artistic decorations of fruit and flowers added greatly to the general arrangement of the tables and to the pleasure of the banquet.

After the dinner had been partaken of, Toastmaster Dorland arose and addressed the assembly.

Chester H. Rowell responded to the first call, the "Messengers of the Post."

He said in part:

"The postal system is the greatest institution in the world; it is the only institution that covers the whole world, and it ought to be of great satisfaction to you to know that you are part of this great institution. You are the only people left that know that most ancient of all arts—the art of spelling. The relationship between the government and the people is mainly through you. Most people realize this and look upon the postoffice as their key to the government and the rest of the world."

Elmer L. Smith of Santa Barbara responded to "Our National Association."

He spoke of the national association and its benefits. Aside from it he contrasted Fresno with his own city.

"And I am not saying anything," said Santa Barbara, "but I know what a relief it is to come to Fresno and see how calm and settled a progressive California city can be."

E. F. Richards spoke of the objects of the state association; the helping of the national body; and the forming of closer, more congenial and social relations between its own members.

The delegate from San Francisco, J. C. Daly, spoke of the pleasant disappointment he found in Fresno. He had heard that Fresno was a burnt-up, hot and disagreeable place in summer; but he found it just the opposite.

He spoke of the benefits and blessings of the association; of how the members all over the country came forward and helped their destitute brothers in their plight of last April. "It was a true realization of a national association."

D. J. Hallahan of Oakland proved a most entertaining talker, telling some exceedingly funny stories and creating great laughter.

He said many of the delegates were singing, "Gee, but this is a lovely town," when they arrived Saturday night on the "Owl," but Sunday morning they changed their tune.

Chas. F. Nell of San Francisco next complimented the ladies. "There is no greater pleasure to me," he said, "than to respond to a toast to the ladies. The last time I responded to that toast was at a stag party and the last thing I remembered was drinking to the ladies. One of our brother delegates came up to me yesterday and said, 'One particular thing about Fresno, I like is —' I shut him up there because I thought he was going to say beer, and I couldn't agree with him, but when he finished by saying, 'the ladies,' I agreed with him immediately. The speaker said he would omit telling a story because he told one the other day and was just getting over it."

Other speeches by E. H. Osborn, R. S. Eby and C. F. Hibbs brought the banquet to a successful close.

Taking It Out of Her Wages. Herbert Knox Smith, the brilliant deputy of the Bureau of Corporations, said in Washington, apropos of certain illegal acts:

"These acts are illegal. But the question is, can the law get at the perpetrators?"

"I am afraid it can't. For these men are poor, and monetary punishment is the only one the law can take. The law, I am afraid, is in the position of a certain housewife I heard about the other day."

"This housewife, a strict woman, said to a new maid:

"If you break anything, I'll have to take it out of your wages."

"But Maude, whom two days had sickened of her berth, replied with a merry laugh:

"Do it, ma'am; do it. I've just broken the hundred dollar vase in the parlor, and if you can take that out of four dollars—for I'm leavin' at the end of the week—why, you'll be mighty clever!"—Selected.

Captain Dugge of the Hamburg-American liner Prinz Oscar, stood by the rail as his handsome boat neared Gibraltar.

The day was fine, the sea was blue and sparkling, and a pure cool wind was blowing.

"How beautiful the sea is," said Captain Dugge. "Did you ever witness the wonder of those who see the sea for the first time?"

"Once I saw two peasants in such circumstances. They gazed at the boundless spread of rolling blue water with awed eyes. Then one said:

"Amazing! Who could have thought there could be so much water as that?"

"Yes," said the other. "And remember, Fritz, you only see what is on top!"—Selected.

APPEARING OLD

Acts as a Bar to Profitable Employment.

You cannot afford to grow old. In these days of strenuous competition it is necessary to maintain, as long as possible, one's youthful appearance.

It is impossible to do this without retaining a luxuriant growth of hair. The presence of dandruff indicates the presence of a burrowing germ which lives and thrives on the roots of the hair until it causes total baldness.

Newbro's Herpicide is the only known destroyer of this pest, and it is as effective as it is delightful to use. Herpicide makes an elegant hair dressing as well as a dandruff cure.

Accept no substitute—there is none. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Geo. H. Moore, Special Agent.

S.S.S. HEALS OLD SORES

Every old sore exists because of a polluted condition of the blood. This vital fluid is infected with some germ or old taint, or perhaps has been left in an unhealthy condition from a long spell of sickness, or the trouble may be inherited. The poisonous germs and matter with which the blood is saturated force an outlet on the face, arms, legs or other part of the body and form a sore or ulcer. This being continually fed by a polluted blood supply, grows red and angry, festers and eats into the surrounding flesh until it becomes what is very aptly termed an "old sore." The relief produced by external treatment is only temporary. The only treatment that can do any real good is a blood purifier that goes to the very root of the trouble and removes the cause, and for this purpose nothing equals S. S. S. If driven out from the circulation all morbid matter and germs, even reaching down to hereditary taints, and by cleansing the blood heals old sores permanently. S. S. S. not only removes all taints and poisons from the blood but builds it up by supplying it with the rich, health-sustaining properties it needs to keep the system in health. S. S. S. makes pure blood and a sore must heal if the blood is pure and healthy. Book on Sores and Ulcers and medical advice free. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

NEWS SIFTINGS FROM SANGER

Crops of All Kinds Are Being Harvested.

Citizens Complain of the Railroad Service—Schools Open on the 11th.

SANGER, Sept. 4.—There is something doing in Sanger. The usual commercial activity that accompanies a prosperous season is rampant in this vicinity just now. Crops of all kinds are being harvested and satisfactory prices are being paid. The peach crop is unusually short but high prices have placed the proceeds about on an equal with other seasons. Grape picking has just begun. It is thought that the Malaga are going to fall short owing to the vines being affected by the extreme July heat. Many of the vines, especially on the light grades of land, have fallen heavily during the past month, the grapes having fallen off in many places. The grapes that were exposed began to shed during the hot weather and the deterioration of the vine since has caused an unexpected shortage that will have to be righted with prices. The quality of the remaining crop and the great demand for new raisins are causing things to look good to the local growers.

The High and Grammar schools will open next Tuesday, the 11th. The first day of the week being a holiday causes one day's delay. However, Principal R. Y. Glidden of the High school will utilize Monday in examining credentials of those who expect to enter, having given notice that those who have doubtful credentials will be examined on that day. There are a number of pupils in the community from ungraded eastern schools who are prepared for High school work, yet haven't the necessary credentials. For this reason the competitive examination will be held.

It seems that the Southern Pacific lap road that was built to catch the traffic of this section is succeeding well in keeping at the tail end of the prosperity of the country through which it passes. There have been official promises that the service would be improved, but the improvement has not materialized. This season has seen the fruits of inadequate railroad service. The tremendous fruit belt that lies on both sides of the road south of town is in bearing this year, that the majority of the largest growers of this new section are patronizing out of town packing houses and hauling their fruit at inconvenient distances in evidence that there is a lacking in the home railroad service. There is scarcely a sixty miles of more productive and ready producing country to be found, even on the main line than the sixty miles traversed by the one train a day of this vicinity. The only passenger service to Fresno later than 8 o'clock in the morning is the mixed train that runs from four to six hours behind time six months of each year. A train that carries thousands of dollars daily of perishable produce has enough to do without backing up several times to take a running start in order to climb grades but such is necessary almost weekly in the present service.

The employers of the local system are courteous, patient and the most overworked of any servants of any community. This is the last year of grace on railroad service. A new road is needed and unless conditions change there is going to be united effort to get a service that serves.

Three fires have occurred in the vicinity of Sanger during the past ten days. On the 23d ult. B. S. Greenwood, a prominent farmer south of town lost his dwelling with contents; estimated loss $1500; insurance on house and contents $500. The explosion of an oil stove was the cause of the fire. The following morning the dwelling with contents of W. T. Vineyard, a pioneer resident of East Sanger, was burned, the fire originated in a defective brick flue; estimated loss $2000; insurance $1000. The third house to be destroyed was that of Mrs. Sarah Edgars, two miles east. The fire came from a log burning near the house. The family being away from home at the time there was nothing saved; loss $800; no insurance.

Miss Benn, the popular English teacher of the High school, has returned to Sanger, having spent a pleasant vacation visiting her relatives in Nebraska. Will Tipton of Bill Bailey's home is again at his post of duty, having spent several months visiting friends and relatives at points east.

Mrs. E. E. Baird and Mrs. C. P. Walton, together with their families, have returned from Ockenden. Mr. and Mrs. Austin left for San Francisco last week, where they will in the future reside. Mr. Puston has been head bookkeeper at the mill several months, but recently resigned to accept a more lucrative position about the bay.

Mrs. John Shupe and daughter Beniah of Reedley were visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Vineyard last Thursday.

Mr. Prior, accompanied by his daughter Maude, has returned from Berkeley, where Miss Maude has been attending summer school.

George C. Sawyer and daughter Lena are again home, having spent several months visiting Mr. Nintley's old home in Vermont.

W. T. Agge and Lucius Powers will represent Sanger and Centerville in the Republican state convention.

ANNUAL EXAMINATION OF CLERK AND CARRIER

The United States Civil Service Commission announces that the regular annual examinations for the positions of clerk and carrier in the Fresno postoffice will be held on November 24th. Persons who desire to compete should at once apply to Miss Maud R. Hurford, local secretary, at the Fresno postoffice.

On the 26th instant there will be an examination for interpreter (Syrian and Spanish), for the immigration service.

CHILD BURIED ALIVE FOR TWENTY MINUTES

Harrowing Experience of Little Dorothy Olney at Carmel.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Olney and two children returned last night on the Owl from Carmel. That Dorothy, the youngest child, aged 2 years, was brought home alive, after a harrowing experience last Saturday afternoon, in little short of a miracle. The little one was buried for twenty minutes in a sand dune, and when dug up after various frantic efforts, the child gave no signs of life.

Mr. and Mrs. Olney went to Pebble Beach in the afternoon, leaving the children with the nurse, Hattie Porter. The nurse dug a hole in the side of one of the steep sand dunes and Dorothy was playing in it, when the sand heap caved in, burying her alive. The frantic nurse tried to dig the child out, but couldn't, and ran for help. A neighbor, Mrs. Powers, tried to rescue the child, but could make little headway, when a Jap with a shovel was raised and he dug the baby out. Artificial respiration of various kinds was tried and finally the little one was placed in a warm bath and for the first time gave indications of life. Physicians, who had been quickly summoned, said it was a miracle that the baby's life had been saved. A fear that pneumonia might result from the severe strain on the lungs happily proved groundless, and little Dorothy returned apparently none the worse for her terrible experience.

RESULTS ON THE DIAMOND

OAKLAND, Sept. 3.—Oakland took both games today. In the morning event, Fresno, short of pitchers, put Left Fielder McLaughlin in the box, and he appeared content to lose the ball to the batter. Oakland secured fifteen hits off his delivery, and won by a score of 9 to 3. The afternoon game was without error. Score:

TRANSCRIPT IN HELM CASE

Longest Document of Kind Ever Filed Here.

Chief Reliance Placed on Filing of Indictment on Legal Holiday.

That the fight for a new trial for Elmer Helm, sentenced to hang for the murder of W. J. Hayes, will hinge on the question of the holidays declared by Governor Pardee after the San Francisco disaster, is indicated by the transcript on appeal which has been filed with the district attorney's office by Everts and Ewing, attorneys for the convicted lad. The transcript, which was prepared by L. O. Everts at Santa Cruz, contains 60,000 words and is the longest and most exhaustive document of its kind that has been filed in this county. The fact that the information charging Elmer Helm with the crime of which he was convicted was filed on a legal holiday, on which ground his attorney asked for a dismissal of the charge against him when the case was brought to trial in July, is made one of the major objections in the bill of exceptions, and it is understood that the legal battle in the higher court will be fought out on this point. The document states that the judge erred in not granting the motion for a dismissal of the case on these grounds.

Besides this exception fifteen other exceptions on points of law are taken to the conduct of the judge and the district attorney's office during the trial. Besides the usual objections to the action of the court in refusing to sustain the objections of the defendant and in sustaining the objections of the prosecution, errors of law are alleged in the instructions given to the jury, and it is probable that this will play a large part in the contest in the higher court. The bill of exceptions also notes statements by the prosecution during the conduct of the trial averring that they were contrary to law and prejudicial to the substantial rights of the defendant.

Besides the errors in law cited by the transcript, the document alleges that the evidence produced at the trial is insufficient to warrant a conviction for four reasons; first, that it was not proved that Elmer Helm was at the scene of the murder; second, that it was not proved that he committed the murder; third, that the identification of the defendant by the witnesses for the prosecution was faulty; and, fourth, that it was not stated which of the Helm boys committed the crime and which was the abettor.

District Attorney Jones will have ten days in which to prepare amendments to the bill of exceptions, and it will then be submitted to Judge Church for final action before it is sent to the higher court. It is not likely that the case will be submitted to the Supreme Court before some time next month.

At 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon the venire from which the jury will try Willie Helm will be selected, and he will be drawn. The trial of the younger brother is set for the 17th of this month.

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE EFFECTS ORGANIZATION

Manson McCormick Chosen Chairman and L. O. Stephens Secretary.

The Democratic County Central Committee held a meeting yesterday afternoon to organize. It was attended by fifteen out of the twenty-five members. Manson McCormick was chosen chairman and L. O. Stephens secretary. The chairman was authorized to appoint an executive committee of five to manage the campaign. The chairman and secretary are to be members of the committee. Mr. McCormick has not yet appointed the other three. The meeting put in most of the time discussing the plan of campaign.

Automobiles Are Injured.
ST. LOUIS, Sept. 3.—Victor Thomas, one of the competitors in the five-mile automobile race today, at the old fair grounds was badly hurt when he lost control of his 40-horse-power machine rounding a curve at fifty miles an hour on a wet track, and plunged through the outer fence, Albert Byrdton, the mechanic, in the car, was also injured, his face being bruised, his chest torn and his clothing almost completely stripped from his body.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 3.—Two men were severely injured and two other persons were slightly hurt by an explosion of a signal bomb set off to start the parade of the organized union in honor of Labor day. The bomb was the third and was the signal for the parade to start. It failed to explode in the air, returning to the sidewalk some distance from where it was fired before bursting.

THE FRESNO MORNING REPUBLICAN

PUBLISHED BY
Fresno Republican Publishing Co.

CHESTER H. BOWELL, Editor and Manager

FOR FREMONT.

At the League of Republican clubs meeting at Santa Cruz, especial honor is being paid to the few veterans who fifty years ago voted for John C. Fremont for president. It is a worthy honor and especially worthy to be rendered in California, with whose history Fremont was so closely identified. It is a great thing to have voted for Fremont. It is to have been a pioneer in the movement which united America, modernized this country and helped modernize the world. It is to have shared from the beginning that moral revolt and that constructive statesmanship which dared to do right, and knew how to accomplish right, at the most critical point of our history. It is a great history, this fifty years of the Republican party, and it is a great thing to have shared in the beginning and to have lived to see the consummation of it. The "party of great moral ideas" became the party of practical progress also, and gathered into its ranks about all the practical statesmen and all the soundly progressive ideas in the country. All the laws we have are Republican laws, and all the progress we have made in half a century has been under Republican rule. All the promises and prospects of the near future, which anybody expects to see realized, are within Republican lines. There is left, for other parties, only the two extremes of conservatism and radicalism. The whole middle ground is occupied by the Republican party. From the party of protest, it became first the dominant and finally the only party. It has grown until its chief weakness is now in the fact that there is nobody against it. The men, old now, who have been a part of that whole movement, have lived through the biggest thing in political history. All honor to them, and to what they represent.

MINING CAMP LAW.

The incidents of yesterday's prizefight at Goldfield illustrate to the full that rough-and-ready lawlessness which nevertheless enforces order, in an American mining camp. There are no laws in Goldfield. A forty-two round prizefight could not exist anywhere, except beyond the pale of law. And there is a very lawless element in the population there. To the mining camps, until law is established, drift all the lawless elements driven out of other communities. Gambling runs wide open and without limit, and every social vice and evil flourishes unmolested. The newspapers publish Arizona Klacker editorials, and a union, not liking the utterances of one newspaper, undertook to run out of town the union employees of another paper published by the same man. Other unions took a part, and soon the union camp was divided into boycotters and anti-boycotters. Then the big mine owners had a meeting, and commanded the merchants to advertise in the offending paper. Every step, on both sides, was lawless, but there is going to be peace, even if it has to be fought for, which is more than you can say of the law-governed city of San Francisco. In other lawlessness, too, the instinct of law and order is maintained. Gamblers are lawless men, and thieves by nature, but in a mining camp they play square. They know they will get shot if they don't. Prizefighters are fighters and gamblers, but by nature and custom, but they did not dare fake and graft in that Goldfield ring. There were too many guns there. And the gunfighters, whom no police could quell, kept order themselves, and enforced it on others. In a rough way, there is peace and justice, and the enforcement of such laws as custom sanctions. It is a strange example of our racial capacity for self-government. Dump down an extemporized community of Americans somewhere on the desert, with more than their share of the lawless elements excluded from other communities, and they will straightway organize so much government as the sounder public sentiment demands, with more effective means than any law provides, for enforcing law on the lawless. It is a primitive form of self-government, which can not outlast primitive conditions. The standards it enforces are not high. But, such as they are, they are enforced. The anarchy of Cuba, for instance, is unthinkable in America. Bad government, we may have, in old communities, and rough government in new ones. But some government we have, always and everywhere.

This is the statement of J. J. Dwyer, president of Hearst's Independence League (in black type) with certain obvious comments (in Roman type) bracketed to it:

"What the people want is a party independent of the bosses (therefore vote for the party bossed by Hearst) and, particularly, independent of the trusts (therefore vote for the private club of the head of the only newspaper trust in existence who hire and pay the bosses (as Hearst does his political tools) to act as their go-betweens in corrupting (Hearst prefers bulldozing) courts, councils and legislatures. They want a party that will take up the fight of the plain people against the money power in politics (therefore they take up with the hired organizers of the only man in American history who ever made a personal money fight for the presidency)."

A REPUBLICAN YEAR.

All signs point to this being a banner Republican year. The signs are too many to count. Consider only the Democratic signs. Nationally, the only thing over which Democrats exult is the sudden move toward Bryanism, whose present conservatism no radical Democrat favors, and whose permanent tendencies no conservative Democrat trusts. In California, there is the biggest kind of a fight on, for the Republican nominations to state office, while the Democratic nomination is begging for congress. In this district, the Democrats will scarcely be able to shanghai even a perfunctory candidate into making the race. For legislative candidates, in this district, the Democrats nominated a strong candidate for the senate, who does not himself pretend that he has any hope of election, and two weak candidates for the assembly, whose election nobody expects. For county offices, there was no particular struggle for nominations, nor any serious hope of victory, unless at one or two points where real or fancied troubles in the Republican ranks seemed to present an opening. From top to bottom, looking to the evidence of Democrats alone, as manifested in their political action, it is conceded that this is a Republican year, whose tide it is impossible to stem.

Men have been sent out from the sheriff's office of Modesto county and armed posses in the employ of the stage company are searching the trails for miles around the scene of the robbery, but the elusive man with the mask has disappeared as effectively as though he had been swallowed up by some magic cavern in the mountain side.

HERMAN DELFICH'S DIES ON STEAMER

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 3.—Herman Delfich of New York died Saturday on board the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse while on his way to this country, according to a wireless message received here today from that steamer by Mrs. Delfich.

Mrs. Delfich, accompanied by her son, Hermann, and by Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, left for New York during the afternoon to meet the steamer. Charles M. Delfich, a brother of the dead man, also left during the day for the metropolis.

BELLINGHAM, Wash., Sept. 3.—A telephone message to the Herald from Friday Harbor states that the steamer Al-Ki of the Pacific Coast Steamship company, enroute from Seattle to Alaska, with a cargo of dynamite went ashore at 3:15 this morning in a dense fog, near Ward's farm, in a dense fog. It is thought that she is not seriously damaged and that she can be floated at the next high tide.

BRITISH TRADES UNIONS MEET IN CONGRESS

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 3.—The annual trades union congress opened at St. George's hall here today with the largest attendance on record. Over a million and a half trades unionists were represented. Thirty city labor members of the House of Commons participated. The American Federation of Labor was represented. Among the earliest acts of the congress was the unanimous adoption of a resolution of sympathy with the Russian people in their desire for a constitutional government.

THE SEXES IN THE CENSUS.

Since 1850 there has been at each census an excess in the number of men over that of women. This excess has shown a steady increase, with the sole exception of the census of 1870 and this exception is explained easily by the influence of the war of secession, which on the one hand increased the male mortality and on the other checked immigration. The greatest relative excess was in 1890, when 542,000 more men than women were counted. In 1900 there were 1,000,000 more men than women, and this figure, although smaller than that of 1890 and 1900, is higher than that of other censuses. As nearly as may be affirmed, it would appear that throughout the whole world there is an excess of men; in America this is greatest, while in Europe there are more women than men.

Mr. Wilcox examines the differences in distribution of the sexes between cities and the country and reaches the general conclusion: In thickly settled regions there are more women than men, or a tendency toward this state of things; in thinly settled places there are more men than women. Thus, in the states of Massachusetts and Rhode Island and the District of Columbia there are, respectively, 48.7, 49.1 and 47.4 per cent of males, while in Wyoming and Montana the percentages are 61.4 and 61.6. Cities have a greater percentage of women than the country; in 1891 cities with over 200 inhabitants the excess of women in 1900 was 291,000, while in the country there was an excess of 1,840,280 men. These tendencies have become stronger since 1890, when, in 1490 cities of more than 2500 inhabitants there were an excess of 602,200 men, the excess of men in the country being only 1,519,438. The following table enables us to appreciate the differences better:

1890 in cities, 500 men to 1000 Pop.
1890 in country, 510 men to 1000 Pop.
1900 in cities, 497 men to 1000 Pop.
1900 in country, 520 men to 1000 Pop.
In the 1890s the difference in favor of the country was thus 10 men to the thousand, while in 1900 it was 23. In fact of the same order, but expressed in different figures, are observed in the commercial regions of Western Europe; both here and there we must attribute the movement of women toward the cities to the greater facilities for work that they find there.

It is interesting to note that the excess of women in the cities extends to children of less than five years. In fact, in cities of over 25,000 inhabitants there are 300 boys to the thousand, in the rest of the country 500 to the thousand. Besides the economic factor, we probably must take infant mortality into account here. The mortality in the United States is less in the country than in the city, in the whole country it was, in 1900, 19 to the thousand for men (20 in the city and 15.8 in the country), while for women it was 16.8 to the thousand (17.2 in the city, 15 in the country.—Translated from La Nature for the Literary Digest.

THE NATURE OF SENATOR FRENCH'S VINDICATION

From the statements contained in the political articles that have appeared from time to time in the newspapers of San Francisco it would seem that former Senator Frank French will seek vindication from the voters of his district by again becoming a candidate for the Senate. The effrontery of the man is amazing. The evidence which connected him with the charge of bribery was strong enough to convict two of the other members of the committee who were involved in the charges with him, and strong enough to frighten a third one from the State for fear of the consequences of the trial. That French was acquitted was the result of certain for him, fortunate conditions and the weakening of certain testimony which had proved effective in obtaining the conviction of two of his colleagues. His acquittal did not mean a declaration of his innocence. It meant simply that the prosecution had failed to make a case. In the hearing before the Senate when the matter of extradition was being considered French stood in no better light than did the other accused men, nor could he make a defense any more plausible or worthy of belief than they did.

If his election is really possible it would not mean that his reputation had received vindication. It would rather mean that his constituents had covered themselves with obloquy and shown a willingness to bear added disgrace on his account. The fact that Abe Ruef and his machine is behind him would rather add to the belief that French is worthy of the reputation he has obtained because of the fact that even in seeking to take advantage of the corrupt and questionable methods through which Ruef retains control of the situation and directs the will of the majority of the people, if he really wishes a vindication by the free expression of sentiment he should have been willing to discard the machine methods of the party.

Of course, the Republican party as a whole is not to blame for the fact that French has pushed himself to the front again or that Ruef has taken on the cause of French. But they are to blame if they allow their votes to be counted in favor of the plans of these schemers. Bosses can control party machinery sometimes, but it is the people's votes that control the choosing of the incumbents of public office.—Grass Valley Union.

From Yesterday's Call.

The Hartman officials in this city are displaying a bit of anxiety over the news that the Rock Island surveyors are busy engaged in Colorado mapping out a cut-off from the Union Pacific line to that of the Denver and Rio Grande, the significance of which the former are not altogether prepared to understand, although the Gould people have offered them an excuse for the move. A branch line is being surveyed from Calhan, on the Rock Island line, westward to Palmer Lake on the Denver and Rio Grande, a distance of forty-five miles, and as soon as the survey is proved up the construction work will be begun.

At present the Rock Island road is using the Union Pacific tracks from Lima Junction into Denver and the Rio Grande tracks from Denver into Colorado Springs. In the way of an explanation to the Hartman officials, the Rock Island people claim that they are about to build the cut-off from Calhan on their own line to the Denver and Rio Grande, in order to save the expense of 35 cents a train mile paid the Union Pacific for the use of the latter's tracks from Lima Junction to Denver, an expense which is supposed to be sufficient to pay for the construction of the cut-off in five years.

Gould has offered better terms to the Rock Island, and the latter's officials say that while making an important saving they will be able to reach Denver just as quickly by the cut-off as they do now over the Union Pacific rails. As the move of the Rock Island comes a deal with a Gould line, the Hartman officials are naturally interested, as they are in all matters that concern Gould movements in the West. They might readily accept the explanation of the Rock Island people, but they cannot overcome the suspicion that Gould, in granting the rival road terminal facilities at Palmer Lake for its proposed cut-off, may have some ulterior motive in connection with the future welfare of his new transcontinental line.

HOW ABOUT IT? Can You?

It is a matter each individual must decide for himself. He can be a lender and semi-god if he will, or he can go along through life a drugged clown, a cheap "bawler" of wood or carrier of water.

Certain it is that while the Great Father of us all does not seem to "mind" if some of his children are foolish and stupid, he seems to select others (perhaps those he intends for some special work) and allows them to be thrashed and castigated most fearfully by certain "levelers."

If a man tries flitting with these levelers for a while, and gets a few slaps as a hint, he had better take the hint or a good solid blow will follow.

And what are these "levelers"? With many the leveler that keeps him or her back is just plain old-fashioned coffee when it weakens head, destroys digestion or sets up anyone of the many forms of disease directly traceable to it.

When a man tries to live upright, clean, thrifty, sober and unbuggered, manifesting as near as he knows what the Great Father wants, he should, happiness and peace seem to come to him. Does it pay?

This article was written to set people thinking, to rouse the "God-will-it" for every highly organized man and woman have times when they feel a something calling from within for them to press to the front and "be about the Father's business," don't mistake it: the spark of the Infinite is there and it pays in every way, health, happiness, peace, and even worldly prosperity, to break off the habits and strip clean for the work cut out for us. If, therefore, one would be properly equipped for the "business," whatever that may be, and coffee is shown to be the enemy in disguise, it pays to quit and use the food coffee—Positum—the reformation is sure and easily established.

VICE MUST BE SUPPRESSED

Strong Resolution Passed By Ministerial Union.

Officers Asked to Enforce Law and Citizens to Elect Good Men.

A strong resolution calling upon the city administration and the sheriff's office of the county to enforce the law with regard to gambling and the social evil was passed at the first meeting for the fall of the Ministerial Union of Fresno yesterday morning. The resolution calls upon all citizens interested in the social and moral welfare of the city and county to uphold the law and to use their influence in the coming election to put into office only those candidates who will enforce the laws against vice.

The resolutions were adopted after considerable discussion and passed by a unanimous vote of all the ministers present. It is understood that the ministers who are absent from town are in accord with the resolutions. The text of the appeal is as follows:

"The Ministerial Union of Fresno desires to call to the attention of the officials of the city and county of Fresno and the general public the ordinance of the city of Fresno concerning gambling and the keeping or frequenting of houses of ill fame:

"STATUTES AND AMENDMENTS TO THE CODES, 1905, p. 668:

"315. Every person who keeps a house of ill fame in this state resorted to for the purpose of prostitution or lewdness, or who willfully resides in such house, is guilty of a misdemeanor; or, in all prosecutions for keeping or resorting to such a house common repute may be received as competent evidence of the character of the house, the purpose for which it is kept or used, and the character of the women frequenting or resorting to it."

"POLICE REGULATIONS, CITY OF FRESNO, ORDINANCE No. 221, paragraph 7:

"Any person who shall keep or maintain any disorderly house or house of assignation, or who shall persuade or assist any female to visit any such house, or house of ill fame, is guilty of a misdemeanor. And every day of the maintenance of such house shall be deemed and taken to be a new offense."

"CALIFORNIA PENAL CODE, Chapter 10, Sections 330, 331:

"Sec. 330. Every person who deals, plays or carries on, opens or causes to be opened, or who conducts, either as owner or employee, whether for hire or not, any game of five monte, roulette, fan-tan, stud poker, seven-and-a-half, twenty-one, hokey-poker, or any banking or percentage game played with cards, dice, or any device, for money, checks, credit, or other representative of value, and every person who plays or bets at or against any of said prohibited games, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punishable by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment."

"Sec. 331. Every person who knowingly permits any of the games mentioned in the preceding section to be played, conducted or dealt in any house owned or rented by such person, in whole or in part, is punishable as provided in the preceding section."

"POLICE REGULATIONS, CITY OF FRESNO, Chapters 11 to 14; ordinance number 308, 428, 411 and 427 are to the same effect as the state law above quoted.

"That these laws can be enforced in the city of Fresno is shown by the following excerpt from the Fresno Evening Democrat, June 2, 1906, to-wit:

"NOT AN ARREST LAST NIGHT."

"For the first time this season not an arrest was recorded last night by either police or constables. Since the tenderloin has been closed and gambling has ceased in Chinatown, the town has been quiet from the standpoint of crime. Restaurants that furnished meals for the women of the twilight district, and incidentally, said had liquor that was responsible for many cases that filled the police and justice court, have been closed, and the streets of the former haunts of crime and disorder are as dead as the streets of a deserted city."

"WHEREAS, at the present time a very noticeable and persistent effort is being made by the lowest and lawless elements of the city, together with others, who, forgetful of all the claims of decency and humanity, either for greed of gain, political purposes, or other wrong reasons, are willing to make commerce of their fellows and are really catering to crime, immorality and lawlessness by seeking to break down respect for state laws and to reintroduce and reestablish within the city, or just at its borders, in the county, the disreputable men and women who have for years been a terror spot in our midst, a constant menace to our boys and girls, our homes, the good name and material prosperity of Fresno, and have not only bred physical and moral contagion and vice, but have kept away from our fair city and county very many who would have otherwise made their homes here, therefore,

"RESOLVED, that we, as pastors of the Ministerial Union of Fresno, request the mayor, police commissioners, and chief of police of Fresno and the sheriff and officers of the county of Fresno to strictly and impartially enforce the laws against gambling, and to prosecute and continue to prosecute all persons who own, lease, rent, occupy or frequent any building or place in the city or county of Fresno for immoral purposes, and

"RESOLVED, that we request all citizens who are interested in the moral, social and material welfare of our city and county, to unite with us in strengthening the hands, and in every possible way aiding city officials and officers who are seeking to do their duty, and also in the present campaign to use their influence and votes to secure the election of such officials as will enforce the law."

"The above, after careful discussion, was unanimously carried at a meeting of the Ministerial Union of Fresno, California.

"J. M. GILLESPIE, Sec." The ministers elected the Reverend

1000 IRRIGATIONISTS ASSEMBLE AT BOISE

LETTER FROM PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT ON THE RECLAMATION AND FOREST SERVICE THE PRINCIPAL FEATURE OF THE CONGRESS—ADDRESS BY VICE PRESIDENT FAIRBANKS—GOVERNOR PARDEE UNABLE TO BE PRESENT, BUT SENDS ADDRESS.

BOISE, Idaho, Sept. 3.—Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks was today the guest of the city of Boise and the National Irrigation Congress, which convened here for its fourteenth annual session. The convention received a letter of greeting from President Roosevelt, which, provoked hearty applause, and later by resolution by the congress, an expression of thanks was telegraphed to the president at Washington.

Vice President Fairbanks' address was fraught with encouragement for the irrigationists and that the good wishes which he bestowed were fully appreciated was evidenced not only by the hearty applause which greeted his speech, but by the still greater applause which later was provoked when Hon. Fred T. Dubois, Idaho member of the United States senate, in a witty speech, complimented the vice-president as a probable Republican candidate for the presidency of the United States. Should fate decree the election of Fairbanks to the highest office with the gift of the nation, said the Idaho senator, he would have the confidence and support of the entire West; whose interests he has always staunchly supported.

BOISE, Idaho, Sept. 3.—More than 1,000 delegates, representing about half of the states of the union, were present today when the National Irrigation Congress assembled for its fourteenth annual session. Oregon was represented by nearly 200 delegates, Utah sent nearly as many, and California's delegation of about sixty was third in point of numbers.

Vice President Fairbanks, who arrived at Boise before daylight this morning, was escorted to the theater in Riverside park at 11 o'clock and received a hearty welcome, the audience standing and applauding for fully a minute.

Immediately after the arrival of the vice president the congress was called to order by L. V. Shurtliff of Ogden, Utah, first vice president. George C. Pardee of California, president of the congress, was detained in California, and will not be present.

James A. Pinney, mayor of Boise, and Governor E. R. Gooding welcomed the delegates to the capital of the Gem state.

Governor Gooding spoke at some length of the several great irrigation projects now in course of completion in Idaho.

The convention was roused to applause when Governor Gooding referred to President Roosevelt, stating that it was at St. Anthony, in the state of Idaho, where President Roosevelt, six years ago, made his first promise to the west to give his support to the movement for the enactment of a national reclamation law. The great irrigation works in Idaho, now nearing completion, he said, were the fruition of this promise made by President Roosevelt.

United States Senator Fred T. Dubois of Idaho voiced Idaho's welcome to Vice President Fairbanks, and when he touched upon national politics referring to the vice president as a possible presidential candidate, the convention responded with the heartiest applause.

Senator Dubois responded with the heartiest applause.

On behalf of the congress, brief speeches in response to the address of welcome were made by United States Senator Carter of Montana and Governor George E. Chamberlain of Oregon. Clifford Pinchot of Washington, chief of the forestry department of the department of agriculture, who was announced as the bearer of a letter of greeting of the congress from President Roosevelt, was introduced. President Roosevelt's letter follows:

To the Officers and Members of the Irrigation Congress, Boise, Idaho:

Operations under the reclamation act, which I signed on June 17, 1902, have been carried on energetically during the four years since that date. The reclamation service, consisting of over 400 skilled engineers and experts in various lines, has been organized and it is now handling the work with rapidity and effectiveness. Construction is already well advanced on twenty-three great enterprises in the arid states and territories. Over 1,000,000 acres of land have been laid out for irrigation, and of this 200,000 acres are now under ditch; 300 miles of canals and ditches and 30,000 feet of tunnel have been completed; and 10,000,000 cubic yards of earth and 3,000,000 cubic yards of rock have been moved. Detailed topographic surveys have been extended over 10,000 square miles of country within which the reclamation work is located and 20,000 miles of level lines have been run. Three hundred buildings, including offices and sleeping quarters for workmen, have been erected by the reclamation service, and about an equal number by the contractors. Over 10,000 men and about 5000 horses are at present employed.

To Produce Revenue.

The period of general surveys and examinations for projects is past. Effort is now concentrated in getting the water upon a sufficient area of irrigable land in each project to put it on a revenue producing basis. To bring all the projects to this point will require upwards of $40,000,000, which amount, it is estimated, will be availed from the receipts at the disposal of public lands for the years 1901-1908.

We may well congratulate ourselves upon the rapid progress already made, and rejoice that the infancy of the work has been safely passed. But we must not forget that there are dangers and difficulties still ahead, and that only unbroken vigilance, efficiency, integrity and good sense will suffice to prevent disaster. There is now no question as to where the work shall be done, how it shall be done, or the precise way in which the expenditures shall be made. All that is needed. There remains, however, the critical question of how best to utilize the reclaimed lands by putting them into the hands of actual cultivators and home makers who will return the original outlay in annual installments paid back into the reclamation fund; the question of seeing that the lands in that way also the reserves are successfully meeting growing needs.

Lands in the forest reserves that are most valuable for agriculture than for forest purposes are being opened to settlement and entry as fast as their agricultural character can be ascertained. There is no longer excuse for saying that the reserves retard the legitimate settlement and development of the country. On the contrary, they promote and sustain that development, and they will do so in no way more powerfully than through their direct contribution to the schools and roads. Ten per cent of all the money received from the post reserves goes to the state for the use of the counties in which the reserves lie, to be used for schools and roads. The amount of this contribution is nearly $700,000 for the first year. It will grow steadily larger and will form a certain and permanent source of income, which would not have been the case with the taxes whose place it takes.

Finally a body of intelligent, practical, well-trained men, citizens of the West, is being built up—men in whose hands the public interests, including your own are and will be safe.

All these results are good, but they have not been achieved forest service alone. On the contrary, they represent the needs and suggestions of the people of the whole West. They embody constant changes and adjustments to meet these suggestions and needs. The forest policy of the government in the West has now become what the West desires it to be. It is a national policy, wider than the boundaries of any state, and larger than the interests of any larger industry. Of course it cannot give any set of men exactly what they would choose. Undoubtedly the irrigator would often like to have less stock on his watershed, while the stockman wants more. The lumberman would like to cut more timber, the settler and miner would often like him to cut less. The country authorities want to see more money coming in for schools and roads, while the lumberman and stockman object to the rise in value of timber and land. But the interests of the people as a whole are, I repeat, safe in the hands of the forest service.

By keeping the public forests in the public hands our forest policy, which protects the good of the whole people for the profits of the privileged few. With that intent none will quarrel except the man who is losing the chance of personal profit at the public expense.

Our Western forest policy is based upon meeting the wishes of the best public sentiment of the whole West. It proposes to create new reserves wherever forest lands still vacant are found in the public domain and to give the reserves already made the highest possible usefulness to all the people. So far our promises to the people in regard to it have all been made good; and I have faith that this policy will be carried to successful completion, because I believe that the people are behind it.

Sincerely yours,
THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

As soon as the address of the president was read, the vice president Charles W. Fairbanks was introduced. The assembly arose and it was several minutes before the vice president could be heard. He spoke in part as follows:

Fairbanks Speaks.

"Mr. President and members of the National Irrigation Congress: It is impossible to exaggerate the importance of the work in which you are engaged. It is fraught with far-reaching interest, not only to the present but to the future of the west. It is a subject to which I have given considerable attention during my public service, for I have been a firm believer in the feasibility of national irrigation, as now contemplated, in the arid and semi-arid regions. It will bring under cultivation large areas of the public domain which would otherwise remain sterile and practically uninhabitable.

"The rapid increase of population and the pressure of settlement of the arable portions of the public lands has rendered it important that we should reclaim the waste places and make them productive through a wise irrigation system which lies beyond the capacity of individual effort. This policy is in the highest degree beneficent. It not only enlarges the field of wholesome, individual opportunity, but it is in a very special degree, of national significance. It increases the opportunity for the development of agricultural regions of the republic, for multiplying the number of American farms and American homes, thereby augmenting the great conservative force which the sure reliance and safeguard of our political institutions. I firmly believe that the most conservative elements will always be found upon the farm. You will generally find among the millions through the great agricultural regions less tendency than elsewhere to inconsiderate and hysterical judgment.

"It is important not only to promote the interests of irrigation, but there is a correlated subject which is worthy of consideration, and that is: How shall we reinforce and maintain at its highest level the productive power of the soil? Farming is fast becoming a science and the most successful farmer is the one who understands the chemistry of the soil and the products for which it is best suited. We are making marvellous progress in every department of our domestic economy and nowhere is our advancement more marked than in the great field of agriculture.

"Vice President Fairbanks finished speaking a few minutes before 1 o'clock. A recess was taken to 2:30 p. m.

Afternoon Session.

Senator Thomas H. Carter of Montana presided at the afternoon session. Governor George C. Pardee, president of the congress, being unable to deliver his annual address in person, sent a letter, which was read by the secretary.

Pardee's Address as President.

To the officers and delegates of the National Irrigation Congress, Boise, Idaho, Gentlemen: I profoundly regret that circumstances prevent me from meeting with you in this, the fourteenth session of this very important congress. No better work has been undertaken since our fathers laid the foundation for a great republic devoted to liberty and equality than the work in which you have put your hands, that of making the deserts fertile and turning into cultivated farms and gardens our arid waste places.

Compared with the tasks which the Reclamation Service of the United States government has taken up, the construction of the Panama canal is but the digging of a trench wherein to lay the foundations of a great enduring monument to human achievement. When perfected, the canal will be accepted by the commercial world as an everyday convenience, as though it had always existed. The work of reclaiming the arid regions of the West will be going forward, step by step, projected by project, consummated by consummation, with the ultimate end of the work perceptibly no nearer than it is now, and yet in wake of that work there will spring up splendid farms surrounding prosperous villages, which in turn, will surround and sustain populous cities; and, together, these will sustain strong commonwealth by love and gratitude in one indivisible union, and as capable of constructive benevolence as to the preservation of internal peace.

If I were able to be present to speak to you in person, it would be to treat you to go forward and only forward. You have started essentially right, and this is no time to stop to talk new things; or of proceeding on your way by any path other than which you have already mapped out. There may be other routes by which you could attain the same goal—the conservation of water and the irrigation of land, but the way you have chosen is good enough. There is no doubt about the justness of the ways. We have safely gone beyond the parting. Let us not now turn back for any purpose whatever.

The inertia of a nation is great in proportion to its size. Our nation, being the greatest on earth, offered the greatest obstacle in the way of an inert disinclination to enter upon a constructive enterprise of such high proportions as the reclamation to cultivation of more than half of its entire superficial area; but thanks to the thirteen persistent and consistent National Irrigation Congresses which preceded this one, a start has been made, a start as splendid in commencement as it will be in fulfillment, if we but press forward, averring neither to the right nor to the left, nor yet halting to see how far we have got. The pressing need at this hour is to finish the enterprise now under way in order to get the water onto these new lands, to get things to growing and the construction funds to reviving that new works may be undertaken.

Perhaps this work might be done as well by a commission of engineers, working through committees and subcommittees as by the Department of Interior working through the honorable and responsible secretary of the department, working through the responsible director of the United States geological survey, working through the head of the Reclamation Service, working through some hundreds and even thousands of technically trained young men more ambitious to make names for themselves in their chosen calling than to grow rich in enterprises involving plunges in high finance of doubtful morality and patriotism. I say that the commission scheme of the present service might result as well as the other, but I feel very certain that it could not have done better than the Reclamation Service has done so far, and I doubt if it would have done as well. The commission land did not promise well for the construction of the Panama Canal, and since the canal has been placed in the custody of the War Department of the United States government with its distinguished secretary as its responsible head, it has made better progress. I think that executive power, in order to be productive, must not only be centralized but individualized. The individual to whom any constructive work of great magnitude is confided must be given plenary powers and, then, be held to a strict accountability for results. That is the theory running all through the reclamation service as it stands. It is the true theory and any change of policy would in my judgment, retard the reclamation enterprise instead of advancing it.

The beginning that has been made, through the invaluable aid of the National Irrigation Congress, has not been made without opposition. That opposition may be sleeping, but it is not dead. There are, I am sorry to say, indications of its coming to active life again. In my judgment the field of operations is broad enough and long enough to afford limitless opportunity for both private and governmental enterprise to do their utmost for centuries to come, and there is no good reason why either should encroach upon the domain of the other. Whenever it is possible for private enterprise to enter upon the reclamation of lands with a reasonable expectation of returning a reasonable profit upon a reasonable investment, without exacting more than a reasonable rental from the users of water, there, and in such instances private enterprise will surely take up the work. But I take it that this great, and not always prudent, government of ours has grown weary of a policy of reclaiming swamp and overgrown lands which has resulted in nothing more than porting company with the titles to such lands without accomplishing their reclamation, and that it will not wish to pursue a similar policy with regard to the reclamation of so much of its arid lands as are still vested in the government. The word has gone out that the reclaimed lands shall become the property of the people who are to make homes on such lands, and at no greater price than the actual expenditure in reclamation works shall impose upon such lands. If development by private enterprise is to mean that the investment is to be undiminished the sale of the lands to the tiller of the soil, in addition to exacting, perpetually, a high interest on the investment in the way of a charge for the use of water, then development will do well to await the beneficent investment of the revolving fund of the Reclamation Service. The water should belong to the land and the land to the man who is to cultivate it, and he should pay for neither more than a reasonable return on a reasonable, and real as well as reasonable investment. Let me repeat: Where private enterprise as a reasonable opportunity to engage in a reclamation project on a basis reasonable and just, private enterprise will do the work, but the right of way should never be conceded to private enterprise where the result is likely to be the witnessing of a dizzy flight in high finance, for the virtual enslavement of a farming community to the cruel exactions of a greedy corporation.

Now, wide this area of endeavor is, and how great the harvest, may be imagined when we reflect that the Reclamation Service already has surveyed and approved reclamation enterprises that will involve the expenditure of a round hundred million dollars, whereas the estimated total for the reclamation fund by the end of 1908 is only $40,000,000. Montana alone is said to be awaiting the expenditure of a hundred million dollars in this work but two hundred millions will not adequately reservoir the western slope of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California. There is not the smallest need that private and governmental enterprise shall get in each other's way in reclamation work, or, what is equally important, that private enterprise should sit idle down on some arid plain and do nothing worth while in the hope that the reclamation service will presently come along and do its work for it.

I perceive, too, that our friends of the South would like to have our revolving fund in the reclamation of the swamp and marshy lands of our Southern coast, not to speak of the everglades of Florida. I trust that they will not be in a hurry to break in upon our irrigation enterprises. I venture to hope that they will let our revolving fund revolve long enough at least to grow unwieldy. It may some time grow so large that its very bulk will embarrass the Department in that its very bulk will embarrass the department in its efficient management, but that is not yet. Let us first produce fruits from the work already undertaken. "First on time, first in right" has been found a salutary rule in water distribution. Reclamation of arid lands was first in time and should be first in right, at least until there has been more of accomplishment that is now in sight.

Gentlemen of the National Irrigation Congress, my heart is with you in this stupendous undertaking, and if I were with you in person my advice should be, "Don't think with the Reclamation Act or modify with the Reclamation Service, but be steadfast and go forward, until reclamation has proven, by the completion of a number of irrigation works that it is, as we know it will be, a success, any modification of the present plan of procedure will open up the way to numberless modifications. And this will result in disaster to the whole enterprise. Let your motto be, "Hold fast."

The honors which the congress has extended to me and my state make me regret all the more my inability to be present with you at the beautiful little city of Boise and participate with you in the deliberations of the congress. California, in common with the Great West, prays for the continued success of the irrigation movement.

Charles D. Walcott, director of the reclamation service, discussed "the relation of government reclamation work to public enterprise," and F. H. Newell, chief engineer of the reclamation service, discussed "the progress of national reclamation."

STORY OF LIGHTWEIGHT BATTLE BY ROUNDS

GOLDFIELD, Sept. 3.—At 2:54 o'clock Nelson ended the ring closely followed by Joe Gans. Both were clad in heavy bathrobes.

Gans wore short blue trousers and shoes. He wore no socks. Nelson wore a light green tunic and trousers, and a white, red and blue ribbon.

Both men weighed in at 2 o'clock and came within the requirements. Sullivan announced that the men weighed in at 132½ pounds each. Nolan contradicted this, saying that the weight was not made public.

An usual Nelson was there with more objections. He claimed that Gans should have weighed 12 with bandages. Gans said: "I don't want any tape, any way, and the crowd cheered. Nelson's arms were bound with white tape. Sullivan addressed the audience, saying:

"Ladies and gentlemen: This battle will be a finish contest for the light-weight championship of the world. There are about 300 deputy sheriffs in this town to preserve order and be on the look out for trouble. I warn you all against jumping into the ring during or after the fight."

3:22 p. m.—Sullivan has called the men to the center of the ring to give them their instructions.

Time was called at 3:25. Round 1—Gans led off with two light lefts for the face and they clinched. Nelson received a right on the body and Gans quickly shot right and left to the face. He followed it with a right to the face, and Nelson missed three lefts and right swings for the jaw.

Gans, in a mix, lost his right twice to the face and outboxed him at every point of the game. Gans jabbed Nelson with two rights to the jaw and followed them with a left to the face. After breaking from a clinch, Nelson walloped his right hand to the jaw and followed it with a left to the same place. Gans then peppered Nelson's face with trip-hammer right and lefts to the face and jaw, and kept this up until the going rang. Gans went to his corner with a big lead. Blood flowed from Nelson's ears as he went to his seat.

Round 2—Both were up quickly, with Nelson the aggressor. Gans up-percut twice with right and then jabbed Nelson with two terrific punches to the jaw. He followed it with a straight right to the jaw. Nelson seemed impervious to punishment and came in all the time. Gans measured his distance and time and again shot his short-arm rights to the jaw. He chopped Nelson on the jaw again with a stiff right. Nelson fought him to a clinch and landed a terrific right to the face. In a mix up Gans worked Nelson's head with two wicked right punches to the face, and followed it with a short arm jolt to the ear. As the going rang Gans worked a hard left to the jaw. Gans had a good lead and outboxed and outgeneraled his man throughout.

Gans Draws Blood. Round 3—Nelson tried to get in close and Gans whipped his right to the ear. At close quarters Gans up-percut twice with right and left to the head. Nelson sent in a high right over the eyes. Gans hooked a wicked right to the stomach and Nelson shot a straight left to the face. Several of Nelson's swings went wild. They went into a mix in the center of the ring, in which Gans drew blood from Nelson's nose with a straight left. Nelson sent in a good right to the face as the bell tolled. Nelson is being outboxed, but does not give ground and seems to thrive on Gans' punches. It was Gans' round.

Round 4—Nelson missed a left for the body. Nelson chased Gans about the ring, but his blows invariably fell short. In a clinch, Gans worked his left and right to the face. Nelson went after Gans' body and bored in with his head, the black man backing steadily away but at the same time peppering his man with rights and lefts to the face. Nelson caught Gans a terrific swing to the jaw, and Nelson, cutting loose, drove Gans against the ropes, landing both hands to the side of the head. Nelson bleeding from the nose, kept after Gans, but this time Gans shot a straight right to the face which he duplicated a moment later. Gans put a right to the stomach and the bell rang. Nelson brought the great crowd to its feet as Nelson went to his corner with a faint smile on his face. Nelson had a shade the better of it.

Round 5—Gans quickly shot a left to the nose as Nelson rushed in and they went to close quarters. Nelson swung his right to the ear forcing Gans about the ring. Nelson drove his right to the kidneys, but the black man rocked Nelson's head with a series of left and right punches. Nelson swung back wildly and Gans smashed Nelson's nose with a terrific right drive. Gans brought the blood afresh from Nelson's nose with stinging left punches to that organ. In a mix, Gans up-percut with right to jaw. Not for a moment did Nelson break ground. He swung heavily to Gans' face with left for which he was rewarded by a stiff right to the face. The going clanged and Nelson went to his seat spitting blood. Nelson was badly punished in this round. Betting 2 to 1 in favor of Gans.

Nelson Fought Desperately. Round 6—Nelson rushed Gans but the colored land smashed him on the face three times with the right and finally avoided Nelson's attempts to land. Nelson bored in, forcing Gans to the ropes. The crowd objected to Nelson's boring tactics, especially with his head against Gans' chest. After breaking from a clinch, Gans planted a right to the jaw and followed it with several terrific right drives to the face, sending the blood from Nelson's mouth in a stream. Gans sent Nelson's head back, hammering his man almost as will. Nelson fought back desperately but could not locate his shifty antagonist. Nelson was in bad shape when he took his corner. His face was cut into ribbons. Gans had a big lead and looks like a sure winner, unless Nelson should get in a chance blow.

Round 7—As usual Nelson forced Gans about the ring, Gans contenting himself with watching for an opening.

Round 8—Nelson landed his right on the mouth and they went to a clinch. Siler cautioned Nelson against hitting low, and Nelson swung his right to the kidneys, and they wrestled about the ring, during which Gans worked in a left upper cut to the mouth and a moment later applied a similar punch. Gans, after Nelson had twisted his arm, sent the batter back with two hard short-arm right chops to the face, and a moment later shot his right to the jaw. Both men rested on their ears for some time and the round ended with honors a bit in Nelson's favor.

Referee Warns Nelson. Round 9—Nelson rushed in with a straight right to the face and Nelson swung two lefts to the negro's face. Siler again warned Nelson about using his head. Nelson should cut out this kind of work. Nelson continued to butt and fight, and they again went down, fighting shoulder to shoulder. Nelson sent in two left swings but Gans evaded them with two stinging rights to the face. They wrestled about the ring and Gans drove Nelson against the ropes with two right smashes to the face. Nelson nearly went to the floor as Gans backed away and at the end of the round Gans got in a good right punch to the jaw. The men did not hear the going ring and were pulled to their seats by their seconds. It was a tame round with no advantage.

Mixed It Furiously. Round 10—They stood shoulder to shoulder in the center of the ring. Gans walloped the Dane with right and left to the face. Nelson tried desperately to work in two hard right swings to the body and for his pains received two wicked short arm rights to the jaw. At close quarters Nelson swung his left twice to Gans' jaw and a moment later swung right to the same place. They mixed it furiously, Gans landing four punches to Nelson's one. Nelson swung right and left hand to Gans' jaw but Gans more than evened matters, sending the Dane back with rapid fire rights and lefts to the jaw. Gans bled slightly from the mouth as the bell rang. It was Gans' round.

Round 11—Gans met Nelson's rush with straight lefts to the face. "Stay with him, don't let him get away," was the injunction from the referee's corner. They went in close and Gans smothered Nelson with two rights and a succession of lefts to the face. Nelson bored in and whipped his right and left to the negro's jaw. Nelson then brought blood from Gans' mouth in a stream with a succession of rights and lefts to that member. A terrific mix resulted at close quarters. The arena resembled a shambles. Both men fought at a fearful pace, Nelson having the best of a breaking rally. The men bled copiously. The bell rang with Nelson having the shade of a most vicious round.

Round 12—They closed in with Gans fighting hard and requesting of Referee Siler that Nelson stop butting with his head. Nelson apparently realized that his only chance was to fight break to breast and judging from the preceding round he is the better man at this game. Gans started a stream of blood from Gans' mouth by two wicked right upper cuts. They broke from a clinch and Gans immediately whipped in two rights to Nelson's jaw. Gans was cautioned to keep away by his seconds but Nelson kept at close quarters. Nelson finally kept a light left to the mouth as the bell rang. If anything Nelson had a slight lead in this round.

Gans Helps Nelson. Round 13—Nelson rushed in and they fought shoulder to shoulder for an advantage. Gans getting Nelson away from him, whipped a stiff right to the face. Nelson forced Gans against the ropes and slipped to the floor. Gans held out his hand and assisted him to his feet and they renewed hostilities. Gans rested himself and seemed content to permit Nelson to do the leading. They fought breast to breast like two bulls. Nelson buffed Gans on the jaw with his head. They both very low, head to head in fashion, each seeking to light according to the way best adapted to his different style. Gans had a slight lead of a tame round. Siler said he believed that Gans was resting.

Round 14—Nelson rushed in and sent Gans back with two lefts and two right swings to the face. At close quarters Nelson upper cut with left and right to the mouth and a moment later swung his left to the mouth again bringing the blood again from Gans' mouth. Both men resorted to wrestling tactics. Gans being the chief offender. They exchanged right swings to face in the center of the ring and went to a clinch. The men again fought breast to breast and at these close quarters Gans worked his right and left several times to the jaw. They went in close again and Nelson sent in two left upper cuts to the jaw that made the negro wince. The negro, however, had a shade the better of the round when the bell clanged.

Crowd Yelled Disapproval. Round 15—Both men fought to close quarters but very few blows landed. Nelson tried to find Gans' body with left and right hooks and occasionally butted the negro with his head. Nelson sent Gans against the ropes by sheer force of his weight. Nelson fell back through the ropes and Gans chivalrously pulled him back into the ring. As a reward for this act of courtesy the Dane smashed Gans on the body, and the crowd yelled its disapproval. At the close of the round Nelson kicked at Gans and the latter promptly retaliated in kind. The men had to be separated by their handlers.

Round 16—Opened with a clinch and Nelson allowed and buffed Gans plainly. He was warned to desist by Referee Siler and the seconds yelled for him. Nelson forced Gans against the ropes. The men fought at such close quarters, or rather wrestled, that little could be accomplished. Nelson in a break-away was sent to the floor with a right straight to the face. Nelson looked a bit shaky as he got to his feet and immediately went to close quarters to protect himself from further long distance events. The crowd cheered. Gans lustily as he went to his corner.

Round 17—Nelson missed a left and right swing. Gans dancing away, Gans tried to keep Nelson at a distance but Nelson followed Gans about the ring trying to land home vicious right swings. Gans whipped his right to the jaw and Nelson wrestled Gans about the ring. Gans holding on, Nelson scored with a stiff right to the face and once more they leaned against one another. Gans wrestled Nelson clear through the ropes and in falling Nelson pulled the negro after him. They were pushed back into the ring and immediately resumed their wrestling tactics. In a mix Nelson drove his right twice to the face and a right to the mouth at close quarters, sending Joe to his corner with blood streaming from his mouth as the bell rang.

Round 18—Gans rushed in with a straight right to the face and Nelson swung two lefts to the negro's face. Siler again warned Nelson about using his head. Nelson should cut out this kind of work. Nelson continued to butt and fight, and they again went down, fighting shoulder to shoulder. Nelson sent in two left swings but Gans evaded them with two stinging rights to the face. They wrestled about the ring and Gans drove Nelson against the ropes with two right smashes to the face. Nelson nearly went to the floor as Gans backed away and at the end of the round Gans got in a good right punch to the jaw. The men did not hear the going ring and were pulled to their seats by their seconds. It was a tame round with no advantage.

Round 19—Siler warned Nelson once more for butting and laid his hand on Nelson's head twice as a reminder that the line should cut out this kind of work. Nelson continued to butt and fight, and they again went down, fighting shoulder to shoulder. Nelson sent in two left swings but Gans evaded them with two stinging rights to the face. They wrestled about the ring and Gans drove Nelson against the ropes with two right smashes to the face. Nelson nearly went to the floor as Gans backed away and at the end of the round Gans got in a good right punch to the jaw. The men did not hear the going ring and were pulled to their seats by their seconds. It was a tame round with no advantage.

Round 20—The men rushed together and Siler grabbed Nelson by the head, indicating that the Dane should cease butting with his head. Gans straightened Nelson up with two lefts to the jaw and landed two lefts to the body. An advantage. Nelson pushed Gans almost through the ropes and then missed a left for the face. In a clinch Nelson landed a severe left uppercut to the jaw and they mixed it, Gans putting right and left to the jaw. He followed his advantage and sent in a volley of right and left swings to the jaw as the round ended. The going apparently came just in time to save Nelson from defeat. Gans had the lead.

Eyes in Bad Shape. Round 21—Nelson came up as though nothing had happened. His left eye was badly swollen and his right discolored. They fought with a clinch and Gans worked his right and left to the jaw and landed two lefts to the body. An advantage. Nelson pushed Gans almost through the ropes and then missed a left for the face. In a clinch Nelson landed a severe left uppercut to the jaw and they mixed it, Gans putting right and left to the jaw. He followed his advantage and sent in a volley of right and left swings to the jaw as the round ended. The going apparently came just in time to save Nelson from defeat. Gans had the lead.

Round 23—Nelson went right after Gans, having received instructions from his corner to go in. They roughed it, and at close quarters Nelson swung his left and right to the face. Nelson smiled determinedly and gave Gans no chance to rest. He swung his left hand to the jaw and Gans retaliated with two wicked right uppercuts to the jaw. Nelson then missed two vicious lefts to the face. Nelson forced Gans back to the ropes and Nelson sent in two left uppercuts to the jaw. Nelson then sent two short arm left jolts to the face and a moment later whipped a left to the face. Nelson rocked the negro's head with right and left to the jaw. He followed this with two rights and a left to the jaw. Joe awoke from his apparent somnolence and hammering Nelson's face with right and left punches. Then they went close and just before the bell rang Gans shot his left to the face. Gans was a bit worse off in the round, but had the better of the closing rally.

Round 24—Nelson forced Gans to the ropes, but could not penetrate Gans' marvellous defense while in dangerous positions. They wrestled again about the ring, Gans resting up. Nelson landed a hard right swing on the head but two left swings for the same place went a-glimmering. Then the fighters boxed and Gans landed a left swing over the mouth and followed it with three straight lefts to the face. Then followed the inevitable clash, emerging from which Nelson went to his corner on the jaw with left. Both men appeared tired at this stage of the contest. It is difficult to predict the winner at this time.

Both Men Are Tired. Round 25—Gans sparred, while Nelson wanted his vitality with useless swings. Nelson pushed Gans against the ropes and the latter, working him- self free, sent his left to Nelson's mouth. Nelson missed a hard left swing and in a mix Joe put in two light rights to the face. Nelson retaliated with two straight lefts to the face, the last one sending Gans' head back. Gans then cut loose. He drove his left to the stomach with terrific force and then drove right and left to the jaw. Nelson, maddened, fought back viciously and gave the negro more than he had received. The round terminated. It was even with both men tired.

Round 26—Gans jabbed Nelson on the mouth with his left and Nelson butted the colored man with his head. Nelson then put left and right to the jaw and shortly afterwards swung his left to the stomach and right to the jaw. Then they closed in and Nelson drove Joe to the ropes with a left hook to the face. The men wrestled to the center of the ring and Gans sent in two right swings to the face. Nelson tried to wrestle Gans to the ropes, and Gans, like a rejuvenated man, drove Nelson back with several fearful blows to the jaw, the first of which sent Nelson tottering half way across the ring. Gans kept at his man who was groggy, and the bell clanged was a welcome sound as he went to his corner. It was Gans' round.

Round 27—Nelson rushed to close quarters, apparently as strong as ever. He followed Gans about, but failed to land on the negro. Nelson's recuperative powers are almost superhuman. The men wrestled and roughed it in the center of the ring and exchanged right swings to the jaw. Gans then cut loose again and mercilessly peppered Nelson's face and jaw with right and left. The Dane merely shook his head and wrestled the black champion to the ropes. Gans rested, permitting Nelson to waste his energy trying to land swings. Gans was against the ropes as the bell sounded. Gans' round.

Cry "Shame" at Nelson. Round 28—They fell against each other and Siler again warned Nelson to cease fighting with his head. They then locked heads and fought at close quarters. Nelson drove all the work, working his right and left to the jaw, right uppercut, and then stalled and rested, apparently with a view of saving his strength. It is in this manner that Gans displays his great generalship. Gans then put in a right uppercut to Nelson's mouth and the Dane missed several vicious left and right swings for the jaw. As the bell rang Nelson deliberately hit Gans and the crowd went to its feet in a storm of protest. Some one started three cheers for the negro, which drew forth a spurring response.

Round 29—Gans cleverly blocked Nelson's attempts to wild swings and again rested, permitting the younger man to do all the work. Siler again told Nelson to quit using his head, wrestling and stalling. The men wrestled for a minute without a blow being struck. They stalled and both appeared tired. In the mix Gans landed several uppercuts with left to the face, and then sent Nelson's head back with a straight left to the face. The men were locked in a clinch as the bell rang. The fight apparently has settled down to a question of the survival of the fittest.

Round 30—Gans danced away from the Dane's lead and as usual, closed in, mostly on Nelson's initiative. Siler again again spoke to Nelson about using his head on the negro's chin. Again came the almost interminable clinching and wrestling. Finally Nelson swung his right to the jaw and quickly followed it with a left swing to the same place. Nelson's left eye is badly swollen and almost closed. Gans sent Nelson back with two straight lefts and three rights to Nelson's sore eye. Gans caught Nelson a terrific clip on the jaw with a right hook and then sent in a dazing left to the face. Again the going brought relief to Nelson and saved him from almost sure defeat. Nelson did not look very cheerful as he took his seat.

Gans Breaks His Right Hand. Round 31—They closed in, Nelson butting with his head. Gans peppered Nelson's face with a jelly with terrific right swings. Nelson's left eye was entirely closed. Nelson punched Gans to the ropes and they fought at close range. Gans resting and saving his strength. Nelson worked to the center of the ring and was a sight to behold. Gans rested again as Nelson bored in and partly wrestled and stalled. Gans sent Nelson back against the referee with a left clip to the jaw. Both men were very weak as the going rang. Nelson for the first time showed great weariness. Gans' round.

It is claimed that Gans had turned his foot in this round, which may seriously incapacitate him for the remainder of the contest. Round 32—The men wrestled and stalled in opening, both seeming content to rest up. It was a waste of neither landing a blow. They wrestled and stalled again. Nelson sent Nelson back to the ropes and received a right swing on the head. Nelson worked in two short arm lefts to the stomach and both men wrestled. Gans nearly putting Nelson through the ropes. Nelson appeared very tired. Joe was the fresher of the two as the round ended.

Round 33—It is the same old story, weary, stall and rest without a blow being struck. Gans finally ripped in a straight left to the jaw and again they rested, each other's head against one another's shoulders. Gans put in a right uppercut that lacked force, and they went quickly to a clinch. Both men tottered about the ring, not landing a blow. Nelson at close quarters worked in left short-arm blows to the face and the bell clanged a very slow and tiresome round.

Again the Wrestling. Round 34—Both sparred and then Gans started something with a straight right to the face. Again the wrestling. Nelson missed a forceful uppercut intended for the jaw and for a brief moment it looked as if the men were going to fight, but such was not the case. Gans cleverly ducked a right swing and then sent in a right hook over the mouth and at close quarters got his right lightly to the jaw. Nelson pushed Gans against the ropes and Gans just did step out of the way of a right uppercut.

Round 35—Nelson was told again to stop fighting with his head. Gans vigorously objected to Referee Siler against this style of wrestling. The men went again to the wrestling style and Nelson swung a left for the jaw that missed its mark three feet.

Round 36—Both men were tired and Gans whipped a powerful left to the wind and they clinched. Both men are very careful. Gans woke up the crowd by catching Nelson at long distance and putting in several straight lefts to the face. Then came the left and a rest.

Round 37—Nelson rushed in and Gans backed up quickly, trying to keep the Dane at a distance and force him to spar at a long range. Gans complained bitterly about Nelson using his head on his chin and shoulders. Nelson swung a left to the jaw and after a clinch Gans put in two rights to the Dane's face. Both men were leg weary and stilled and clinched as much as they could. It was next to impossible to get the Dane to fight at long range and he realized that his only hope of winning the battle lay in close fighting, and the referee warning. Gans likewise seemed perfectly content to ease up and rest.

Dane's Eye Closed Entirely. Round 38—Gans jabbed his left twice to the face, before Nelson could get to close quarters. Then followed stalling and wrestling, which was broken up by Gans punishing Nelson viciously over the heart with the right. Gans followed this with two straight lefts and rights to the face, and again it looked as if the deadlock would be broken. It was only a flash in the pan, however, and the men resumed the tiresome stalling. Nelson being the chief offender. Nelson, by way of variety, sent in a hard left to the jaw, and Gans came back with two lefts to the jaw. Nelson's left eye is closed entirely now, and he appears to be tiring rapidly.

Round 40—They came up slowly and clinched. Gans asked Billy Nolan facetiously: "What time is it?" Then they resumed the clinching contest. Gans shot a straight right to the mouth and Nelson rebuked him with two lefts to the stomach. Nelson whipped his left to the face and the men ceased fighting entirely. Suddenly Nelson landed a hard left hook to the jaw, and two lefts to the face and a right on the body. Both men were walking wearily about the ring, and it was hard to tell which was the most tired of the two after they went to their corners.

Strike a foul. Round 41—Gans started a straight left to the face, and they clinched. Just as the men broke out of a clinch, Nelson deliberately struck Gans jaw, and the colored land struck Gans jaw. The blow was clearly a foul and there was not a murmur of dissent from the spectators as the long drawn out battle was terminated. Gans was given the decision.

STENSLAND IS CAUGHT Bank Looter Had Escaped to Morocco. Traced there by One of the Chicago Tribune Staff, With Aid of Woman.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—A cable to the Tribune from Tangier, Morocco, today, announces the capture in that city of Paul C. Stensland, the president and manager of the Milwaukee Avenue State bank which closed its doors on August 6.

The arrest was made by a representative of the Tribune and Assistant State's Attorney Olsen of this city, who has been on the trail of Stensland since August 13th.

Stensland had many friends, among women of this city, upon whom he was accustomed to spend much money, and one of these, feeling that she had not been treated by him with the consideration which she felt she was entitled to, after a fight with information regarding the direction in which he had gone. Her information was somewhat indefinite, but investigation proved its probable accuracy.

A representative of the Tribune was sent to State's Attorney Healy, who at that time was in the city, with the information, and a request that a representative of the state's attorney's office be permitted to accompany the Tribune representative in the quest of the fugitive. Mr. Healy agreed and sent Assistant State's Attorney Olsen with the Tribune correspondent.

It was ascertained that Stensland had fled from Chicago on July 12th, gone directly to New York and sailed on a steamer of the White Star line for Liverpool. He remained in that city for two days and then took a steamer for Gibraltar, which he reached on July 27th. From there he took passage for Tangier. The Tribune correspondent and Attorney Olsen were not on his trail and arrived in Tangier about an hour after he had left it for a trip to the east end of Africa. It was ascertained that he had deposited $12,000 in a bank of Tangier, and, believing that he would soon return, the two decided to await him there. A dispatch printed in the regular edition of the Tribune this morning declared that the arrest of Stensland would be only a matter of hours, and four hours later a special edition was issued declaring that the fugitive had been taken into custody.

During the period intervening between his flight and his arrest Stensland had been going under the name of P. Olsen of Norway. It was learned before his arrest that he had figured on spending the month of October in the Canary Islands and from there going to London, as he had ordered all his mail sent to the Metropole hotel in that city from Tangier. A reward of $5000 had been offered for the arrest of Stensland and since his departure from Chicago many detectives had been on the hunt for him.

Assistant State's Attorney Olsen had since embarking on the pursuit of Stensland, posed as the son of "Olsen," the name used by Stensland, declaring that he was anxious to overtake his "father," who was traveling ahead of him.

As Stensland apparently made no effort to conceal his trail the following was not difficult.

Later, particulars of the arrest of Stensland were received. He was taken into custody while in the British post-office in Tangier. He had alighted but a short time before from the German steamer Oldenburg and came to the postoffice to direct the forwarding of his mail under the name of Paul Olsen to Morgador, 400 miles southwest of Tangier. As he entered the postoffice he was recognized by Assistant State's Attorney Olsen, who at once placed him under arrest.

Just before noon State's Attorney Healy received the following message from Assistant State's Attorney Olsen in Tangier:

"What is delay in state department? Imperative that they cable instructions immediately through minister at Tangier."

Assistant State's Attorney Harbour at once called Governor Deane at the telephone and the governor directed that extradition papers should be prepared at once, promising to forward them at once to Washington. Mr. Harbour then sent the following message to the state department at Washington, signing the name of State's Attorney Healy:

"Notify Mr. Gummere at Tangier to hold Paul Stensland, fugitive Chicago banker, wanted for forgery and embezzlement. My assistant, Harry Olsen, cabled. Your immediate instructions to Minister imperative."

The closing of the doors of the Milwaukee Avenue State bank, which occurred on August 6, caused more anguish and trouble than and similar event in the West in many years. It was followed by several cases of suicide and a number of people were driven to insanity.

Stensland lived a fast life, spent money recklessly, speculated wildly and in one way or another made way with about $1,000,000 of the bank's money before the crash.

More than 22,000 families had money deposited in the bank and the failure came as a crushing blow to the majority of depositors who were wage earners, and the money they had in the bank represented all that they had been able to save from the earnings of years.

At the time of the failure of the bank, the deposits aggregated $4,100,000. The receiver has paid 20 per cent to the savings depositors and expects the payments will be made in a short time.

The news of the arrest of Stensland was received in the section of the city in which his bank is located with great excitement. A long line of depositors were in front of the bank waiting for their money when the announcement was made, and it was greeted with cheers, groans and threats.

TROOPS ATTACK STRIKING MINERS. PETROSKEY, Hungary, Sept. 3.—As the result of a collision between troops and striking coal miners here today, 175 miners were injured.

SIMPLE CATARRH REMEDY. Take a Hyomei Treatment Four Times a Day and Be Cured. Hyomei has performed almost miraculous cures and is today recognized by leading members of the medical profession as the only advertised remedy for this disease that can be relied upon to do just what it claims.

Until recently your physician would have said the only way to cure catarrh would be to have a change of climate, but now with Hyomei you can carry a health-giving climate in your vest pocket and by breathing it a few minutes four times a day, cure yourself.

The Hyomei treatment is simple and easy to use. It destroys all catarrh germs in the air passages and enriches and purifies the blood with ozone. When using Hyomei the air you breathe will seem like that on the mountains, high above the sea level.

A complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1.90, extra bottles, 50c. If it does not give you satisfaction, the Sun Joquin Drug Co. will refund your money. You run no risk whatever in taking this reliable treatment.

Another About the Moon.

On going out one evening for a walk with her mother, Marion, aged five, was shown the new quarter moon.

"Oh, Marion, look at the new moon!"

"No, mamma; that is not new. I have seen that before."

FUN FOR EVERYBODY

A Good Run, Miss Yip—Is Ethel a domestic success?

Miss Bly—I should say so! She has had three husbands.

Another Growl.

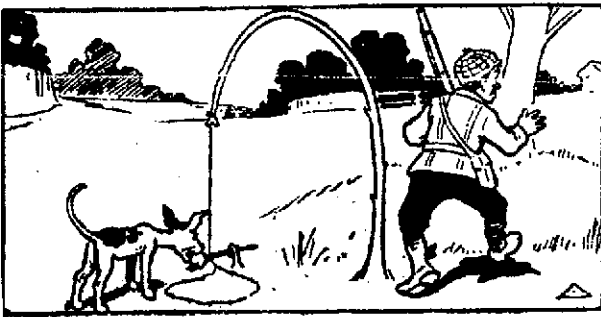

"When is a story old?"

"When your wife gets so she can see the point."

CANNONED BY A CANINE.

"This," said the huntman, "will enable me to catch rabbits without perforating them with bullets."

"Now all is ready I will hide and watch results." But the dog took a fancy to the bait and started to help himself.

With the result that the huntman got the full benefit of his little invention.

THE BEST.

"Are you on good terms with your wife's relatives?"

"The best in the world. I don't know them."

BLUSH FOR THEM.

"Wonder why it is they always speak of the 'blushing bride'?"

"Nothing very remarkable about it, considering the kind of men women marry."

PREFERRED THE CASH.

"My husband trusts you, doctor, implicitly."

"That's very kind of your husband, madam, but I'm not quite so sure that I can implicitly trust him."

THE ELIGIBLE MAN.

"Faint heart ne'er won fair lady."

"A faint heart is a curse; But, lover, you'll discover, Faint bank accounts are worse."

NINETY-EGT DEGREES IN THE SUN--TWO IN THE SHADE.

RATHER SUGGESTIVE.

He: "Cupid is blind."

She: "Yes, so I have heard. And the conversation of some lovesick people makes me wish that he were also deaf and dumb."

THE ABLE LAWYER.

"They say he's an authority on constitutional law."

"I think he's an authority on unconstitutional law. According to him, there's very little of any other kind."

AN ENDLESS PROGRAMME.

He sighed for wealth.

A mighty store

He got, and then

He sighed for more.

OF NO USE.

Bonifant (hearing a squeaky rowlock)—Shall I put some grease on your scull, sir?

"Grease on my skull? No, thanks. I've tried everything."

SIMILARITY.

"That defeated racing auto over there reminds me of good money."

"That's an odd comparison. Why does it remind you of good money?"

"Because everybody can pass it."

CULMINATION.

"It's very sad that fellows who break into houses fall Break seldom in the long run to Break into jail."

EASILY EXPLAINED.

"But do you really believe that lightning never strikes twice in the same place?"

"Sure. The place isn't there after it's struck the first time."

Nice, Good Man.

Grace—The idea of Susan going out to work and that husband of hers loafing about, doing nothing! I wouldn't support the best man who ever lived.

Ethel—You wouldn't have to. The best men support themselves and their wives too.

Sparing His Feelings.

Allice—He thinks he hasn't made any impression at all.

Clara—Oh, yes, he has, but I'm too considerate to let him know what kind of an impression it is.

THE UNATTAINABLE.

Now, what is human happiness? Afar we contemplate it. It's what some other fellow has. Who can't appreciate it.

SHOWS ON HER FACE.

Mr. Dauber—And you are fond of art, are you not?

Miss Painter—Oh, yes, Mr. Dauber! But how did you ever guess it?

"Why, your face shows it."

JACK IN THE BOX.

"Bowl! What's this? I'll show the brute!"

"Take that!"

"Tut, tut! Quite a toothsome morsel. 'Go-er! How awfully indigestible!"

All Sorts of Fools.

"You are the biggest fool I know!" exclaimed one schoolboy to another.

To both of whom the master, then appearing, said, "Boys, you forget I am here."

"Oh," added the first boy, who felt that his statement demanded support, "you are not such a big fool as you look."

Then there was more trouble.

Why He Is Popular.

Mabel—Is he an entertaining conversationalist?

Both—Very. He lets you do all the talking.

"IN HASTE."

She wrote the note a dozen times Before 'twas to her taste. Then copied it most carefully And signed it, "Yours, in haste."

WHICH?

He (philosophizing)—I used to think that I knew a great deal—that I was wise, in fact—but the older I become the more I realize that I know nothing. She—Agnostic or plain ignoramus?

A JUNGLE JEST.

One time a simian athlete tried To vault a wide and yawning trench; He sprained his ankle; then he cried, "That was a first class monkey wrench!"

LITTLENESS.

Some men are so small that they are almost justified in expecting to slip through the gates of heaven without being seen.

MUSIC ON THE FARM.

What He'd Have.

"Don't understand the meaning of half? Now, suppose I gave you this apple and your little brother was to cut it into two equal parts and take one of them, what would he have?"

"A smash in de face."

'Tis Said.

"Watch out," warned the pick-pocket as he palmed the gentleman's timepiece.

HOW IT HAPPENED.

The Chicken: "Ma, I've just seen a little chicken fall over a hundred feet without being killed."

The Old Hen: "Good gracious! How did it happen?"

The Chicken: "He tripped over a sleeping centipede."

AN OLD STORY.

"And you didn't say a word when you saw the father whipping his child so severely?"

"Not I. You see, I follow the races, and I'm used to see favorites beaten."

DOMESTIC BLISS.

Mrs. Oldboy (after a slight difference of opinion)—Oh, if only I had been born in the days of chivalry!

Mr. O.—Well, you came pretty near it.

BETTER KEEP DRY.

"That fellow looks like a swell."

"He ought to be—such a sponge as he is!"

NO CHANCE.

"Is there any hope for your wealthy uncle's recovery?"

"Not in the family, sir."

HIS OWN BUSINESS.

"I can't understand why he married."

"Well, it's quite enough if he understands it."

DID THE BEST HE COULD.

Officer (to man who has been knocked down by passing auto): "You didn't see the number, but could you swear to the man?"

Victim: "I did, but I don't think he heard me."

BUT IT'S HARD ON THE HORSE.

"Ah, Reginald, dere's nothin' like drivin' behind a high steppin' t'orough bred, is dere?"

CLOTHES MAKE THE MAN.

"Ain't he polite, Genevieve?"

"Aw, let's because he's got a new suit. Just as soon as it wears out he'll be the same old tough he always was."

Our Out of Town Friends May Shop By Proxy

We have arranged a department whereby out of town customers may receive the same attention as if they were here in person.

We have placed all mail orders in charge of one of the most competent sales persons. Every mail order will be attended to personally and the same care used as if the customer was in the store.

The lad in charge of this important branch of this business understands merchandise thoroughly. She will shop as intelligently as if she stood at the elbow of the customer.

Once our out of town friends have her fill an order for them, they will continue to do so.

Send in your orders even for the special sale goods advertised and you will receive the most careful and considerate attention.

CREDIT ACCOUNTS

Responsible people desiring the privilege of paying their bill monthly, weekly or on pay days may be accommodated by applying to our credit manager, H. C. Katze. An account here will surely save you money. It gives you the privilege of every special sale, of every bargain, of our trading stamps and of our constantly lower prices.

There is never a day when any customer pays more here than elsewhere. There are many days when they pay less, there may be some days when they pay the same, but on the great majority of items they pay less here.

No one pays a cent for the privilege of having an account in this store.

All that we require is that bill be met within 30 days.

Mrs. E. Knowles of Grimesville Council of Hanford was a visitor to Navajo Council No. 62, Degree of Panchotia, last night. She was given an ovation as she took the rostrum to bring fraternal greetings from the sister council. Mrs. Rosa Justy, delegate to the great council at San Francisco, rendered her report last night. It was enthusiastically received. The council discussed the giving of a skating party in the near future.

Fancy Back Combs

Dame Fashion has ordered the wearing of pretty, fancy, back combs this fall more than ever before. With the hair worn high on the head and very loose in the back, it's positively necessary to have a hind-comb to grace the head. We carry an exclusive assortment of combs that are elegant in simplicity and richness.

THOUSANDS ENJOY LABOR DAY AT OLD TIME PICNIC

Workingman's Holiday fittingly Observed By Hosts of Union Men and Others at Idlewild—Fully 3000 Attend, and Groves Are Filled With a Mad, Merry Crowd of Pleasure Seekers—Baseball, Baby Show, and Nail Driving Are Notable Events.

Labor Day was a success. It was more of a success than was anticipated by the organizers, and made enough merriment and genuine enjoyment for the hundreds who were present to last over until next year's good time. It is of course impossible to tell just how many went to Idlewild park, but a good guess may be gained from the numbers carried by the various tally-hos and other conveyances. According to the statements of the drivers there must have been at least 2500 people present, and the probability is that the actual number was considerably more. From early morning until the pull-off of the last event at 5:30, crowds came and went. The last returning bus at 6 o'clock had its seating accommodation crowded to the utmost, and many were obliged to walk home. The affair was a good old fashioned picnic, Union men, with their wives and families, attended in full numbers, but they by no means made up the entire gathering. The city seemed deserted during the morning, and greater part of the afternoon, and the good time going on at Idlewild park was in everyone's mouth.

The tally-hos started out in dozens from Mariposa street, before 8 o'clock, and less than one hour later the groves were swarming with a laughing, good natured crowd, all ready for the fun to begin. The union men were there, resplendent in gorgeous badges and streamers, to show the people about, and hand them over to the various committees. The place was decorated splendidly from one end to the other, with bunting and flags, while dotted here and there were the old time booths where nickels worth of confectionery, badges, canes, squeaking trumpets and other trinkets could be obtained. At larger booths, ice cream and other refreshments were sold.

While the greater number, of course, hailed from this city, there was present hundreds from other places. Hanford contributed a large number, who came in on a special train, and were especially accorded a hearty welcome as invited guests, as also were people from other neighboring towns. Alameda was also well represented, as well as Fowler, Sanger, Laton, and in fact, every place within a radius near enough to make a comfortable holiday's trip.

It would be a difficult matter to point to any particular event of the day and call it the best. Each was fraught with deep interest, and furnished points of entertainment lacking in others. The baseball game, perhaps, was watched with keener interest by the biggest crowd. The baby show was more than anything else to the proud fathers and mothers who entered tiny contestants. The nail driving contest was another event that called for the breathless interest of a score of ambitious ladies and their friends. The egg race, the jumping, ball throwing and what-not all were excellent things in their way, and to the winners, at least, they were each better than anything else that happened during the whole day's fun.

The ball game was the most talked of feature of the program, the nine having been trained to a point of perfection ever since they knew the line-up. For a long time it looked as though half a dozen crafts would pick teams out between them, as all claimed to have had the best yet among their numbers, and felt sure that they could do big things with the bat and ball. The contest, however, simmered down to the millmen, printers and clerks. It was agreed that clerks and millmen would have the field to themselves in the morning, and let the printers lick the winners in the afternoon. The clerks were said to possess a tip-top team, and it was their intention to enter it in the league this season. The millmen also had a good one, and claimed that there was nothing in the unions that could come up to it. The contest between the two resulted in a tie, the score standing 10 to 10 in the seventh inning, when it was agreed that the game should end. A harder fought game would be impossible to imagine. Both sides played with their very best tactics, displaying considerable cleverness in fielding and batting. The pitching was also excellent, and many old timers who witnessed the game declared it one of the best yet given this season.

The lineup was as follows, there being on two slight alterations from the list originally given out:

Clerks.
Swartz, ..... Crawford
Galbreath, ..... Johnson
Rush, ..... Widmer
Widmer, ..... Sharp
Barnabe, ..... Renas
Stump, ..... Schultz
Tutts, ..... Ballard
Morris, ..... Bott
Ray, ..... True

The clerks started off with five runs in the first inning, and enthusiasm among their supporters ran high. But the next thing that happened upset this bit. The millmen got in some smart work and soon balanced this score. After a strenuous combat it was finally decided that there was no best in it, and both sides stood even on a point of merit. The game was umpired by the Rev. Duncan Wallace and Ray Baker. Doubtless the teams will come together at no distant date. The game of the printers did not come off. A number of reasons were assigned, but the probability is that the program was already too much crowded with other events, and every one had enough of baseball for one day.

The barbecue took place at noon, and resembled a refugee camp. The affair was arranged to perfection by Delegate Rutledge, who is a fast master in such matters. He was assisted by A. G. Bowen and S. G. Wells. There was plenty of meat and bread for everyone, and the supplies disappeared in a marvelous manner.

The next thing to come off was the bicycle race, under the direction of Broad & Knight and Dougherty & Co. Henry Slay finished first, while Pete Coster was an easy second. The egg race for ladies was happily won by mother and daughter, Mrs. M. A. Brown and Miss Della Brown. Both ladies, by the way, were entered in other events, and Miss Brown in particular displayed considerable prowess in more than one of the features of the program.

The girls' race was an interesting event. The distance was fixed at fifty yards, and a number of fair young contestants entered the event. Lillie McComb and Addie Reynolds outdistanced all competitors, the former coming ahead of the latter as winner by a narrow margin.

J. L. Hutchinson, averted that he can run, even as he is something more than the next man in weight. And the same thing may be said of C. D. Pickford, also no featherweight. These two were entered in the fat man's race, and a race it really was, with no spurious limitations of the test like sometimes happens for the mere name of the thing.

At the word "Go," they went, just as hard as possible. Before they had traveled more than a few yards they discovered that the day was quite warm, and before they learned that it was warmer, but they went ahead valiantly just the same. Up to a certain distance they seemed pretty evenly matched, but after that Pickford was paring with his lung power, while Hutchinson was running strong from then ever.

It was then that he turned with a complacent smile to see his rival receding in the background, and sprinted merrily to the goal, the proud winner of the laurel wreath of victory as prize fat man race in the city.

Something rather more interesting was the baby show. In this also Hutchinson figured prominently, although he did not win uniform popularity with all the mothers in his decision. But he is a father and should know a baby when he sees one, so his judgment did not suffer one whit, especially in the opinion of the mothers and fathers of the babies selected as prizewinners. All in a row in little chairs like so many fairies of fifteen hours. Some of them were good and others were not. Some smiled from ear to ear, while others scowled malignantly upon the crowd below. After a bit, one of them was offended about something and started crying. Others followed, and in the shortest time possible all fifteen, with possible exception here and there, were weeping in a dolorous chorus appealing to the ears of all but the dozing man and his wife lined up like sentinels beside the little thrones. Hutchinson paused before one chubby youngster for a moment, and the mother was irradiated all over with an expectant smile of hope. But it faded when he passed on to the next, which happened to be taking wind for another year. Whether he happened to get a square look at its features, or the baby really was worth a second glance was not stated, but the judge favored his choice between that child and another at the end of the line which was diplomatic enough to have a scowling smile all ready for his coming. And so on, all in their turn, the babies each got a square look. The decisions finally stood as follows: Little Frances Manley and Mary Frances Lewis were adjudged the best looking and fattest babies under the age of one year, and were awarded the first and second prize respectively. Of the older youngsters, more than one year in age, Leonard Hart was the first prize pippin, while Baby Dorothy Werick came out second. It is worthy of note that three of the winners were girls.

Driving nails looks easy enough to any one who knows how, but there is a knack in it and any one but a carpenter has a hard time in finding the head of the nail with the hammer and missing the finger-nails. The task is harder still to a woman, but there were sixteen of them nifty enough to get up on the stand yesterday and show the crowd how to do it. Each lady competitor was required to drive four nails to the nail form, and the way that most of those sturdy ladies did it was a wonder. Of course all of them were not experienced in the ways of nails, hammers and wood, and there were a few regrettable blunders caused by efforts to drive the spikes into knots in the wood. Some of the contestants also erred on a point of imagining that the nails should go at right angles to the board, while others again started in with the nails head first and seemed surprised when the nails themselves reared. One or two ladies got their nails twisted up in spiral gyrations and then seemed to think that it was up to the nail to go out of sight, some where by a few taps on the head. Of others, there was the woman who tapped her nail daintily for a second or two, and then stopped to fix her hat on straight, forgetting for the nonce that Mrs. Somebody on the other side was getting there with busy work. And the woman who stopped in her taps to speak to another woman in the crowd below and explain how easy the prize winning was. All of these afforded huge fun for the water-tight, and were especially amusing to their male friends.

It was, however, all taken in good part by the women who wanted to win, and there was no rancor of feeling when it was announced that Mrs. Richmond had won the first prize and Mrs. Gallagher the second. It might be added in parenthesis that the Gallagher home was singularly fortunate during the day as the husband won the second prize in the broad jump, while Baby Gallagher only missed the baby's prize by a single matter of Delegate Hutchinson's decision in choosing another baby.

Here is what all the ladies did in the way of nail driving:

Mrs. Richmond 25 seconds, Mrs. Gallagher 30 seconds, Miss Stevens 41 seconds, Mrs. Cooper 41 seconds, Mrs. M. E. Davis 40 seconds, Mrs. Gardner 43 seconds, Mrs. Nelson 42 seconds, Mrs. Bear 38 seconds, Mrs. Neil 38 seconds, Mrs. Parish 43 seconds, Miss Ida Long 42 seconds, Miss Brannen 55 seconds, Miss Boykin 32 seconds, Mrs. Bowen 35 seconds, Mrs. Neil 35 seconds, Mrs. Clow 40 seconds.

But if the nail-driving contest was wonderful in its way, the ladies' baseball throwing contest was equally as great. One lady in the lot deserves to be singled out for particular mention. It was Mrs. M. A. Brown, who came off victorious in the egg race, and whose young daughters were both winners in other events. Mrs. Brown did what no baseball expert pitcher has ever yet managed to do in the way of throwing a curve. She took her stand in the ring and, mind you, with even closed eyes, shot forth the ball in a boomerang curve, less than ten feet from her. That the ball nearly gouged out the eye of a youth in the expectant crowd detracted nothing from the cleverness of the feat. Mrs. Brown was profuse in her apologies and tried to say it was an accident, but there are some who will keep on believing that it was simply practice and cleverness that did it.

All of these ladies figured in the contest, and it will be noticed that Mrs. Brown's young daughter, Helen, came out second winner. Miss Helen Brown, Mrs. Cox, Mrs. Styer, Mrs. Gallagher, Mrs. Brannen, Mrs. Clow, Mrs. Kirby, Mrs. Boykin, Mrs. Clow, Mrs. Kirby, Mrs. Clara, Mrs. Elwing, Mrs. March, the Misses Reynolds, Styles, Neil, Walker, Sniders and Brown.

Of the other events, the three-legged race was won by Ray Baker and George Bucha. The fifty-yard race of ladies was won by Miss Helen Brown and her sister, Della Brown. The tug of war was won by the butchers, while the final event, the broad jump, was won with eighteen feet and a jump by Henry Neil, with S. T. Gallagher as second on a hop of eighteen feet.

The evening concluded with one of the largest dances witnessed here this year. Fully 600 persons were present at Zappa park, and carried Labor Day's festivities far into the day after with a genuine night's windup to the day of enjoyment.

JUNIORS DEFEATED VISITORS BY BIG SCORE

In a one-sided, though exciting game of baseball, the J. E. Dougherty's defeated a picked team of youngsters from Hanford, Armona and Visalia at Recreation park yesterday afternoon by the score of 25 to 3. The home team nipped Douglas, the twirler for the visitors, for 22 hits and got a run for every hit.

The Dougherty's outclassed the visitors in every department of the game. As looked for awhile as though the team would shut out their challengers, but the Hanford aggregation pulled three men across the rubber in the seventh inning.

Best, Cook and Duncan carried off the honors with the stick, Best getting six hits out of six times at bat with one two-bagger to his credit, Cook getting four hits out of six times up, and Duncan four safe ones out of five times at bat. Ray Duncan at short for the home team pulled off the star infielding stunt of the day. The score was as follows:

Team. R H E.
Dougherty's ..... 22 28 4
Hanford, Visalia and Armona ..... 3 7 6

DEMOCRATIC CENTRAL COMMITTEE ORGANIZES

Manson McCormick Will Be at the Head of the Organization.

At a meeting of the Democratic county central committee, held yesterday morning, Manson McCormick was elected chairman and L. O. Stephens secretary of that organization. There was a full attendance, the following members being present: L. O. Stephens, W. R. Shannon, O. M. Thompson, J. E. Burnett, J. A. Mills, W. A. Poole, J. F. Forney, G. W. Woods, Manson F. McCormack, A. G. Smith, Butler Miner, L. Seeburg, John A. Neu, Roy Traber, and Z. A. Beall.

After the organization of the committee by the election of officers, sub-committees were appointed to attend to the details of the work of organization for the coming campaign. It was decided that the work of the central committee this fall will be systematized as much as possible to insure better results at the polls.

DODD WILL MANAGE NEW OAKLAND HOTEL

Fred Dodd, the well known proprietor and manager of the Hughes hotel in this city, is to embark in the hotel business in Oakland. He has secured a lease on the St. Marks hotel, a magnificent eight-story structure to be erected by Mrs. Harriet Marks at a cost approximating half a million dollars. The hotel will be the most pretentious on the Oakland side of the bay.

Dodd is not the only Fresno man interested in this hotel. The plans for it have been drawn by B. G. McDougall, the Fresno architect, while the contract for its erection has been awarded to the Lindgren-Flicks Co. also of this city.

The hotel will contain 250 rooms, 200 of which will be equipped with baths. In every way it will be thoroughly modern. Mr. Dodd will make his home in Fresno and still continue the management of the Hughes after he assumes control of his new hotel.

RECREATION PARK.

Immense Crowd Grets an Unusually Strong Bill at Rink.

A Labor Day crowd that filled the open-air theater at Recreation park to the limit of its capacity, witnessed an exceptionally attractive program and enjoyed an exhibition of extraordinary bicycle riding at the skating rink.

IAP WOMEN ARE RAIDED

Scarlet Residents of Cherry Avenue Are Jailed.

Effort to Break Up Conditions Near Road House Results in the Arrests.

The fallen women of the district recently established in the vicinity of Railroad avenue were raided last night, and four of their number taken to the jail, where they were booked on charges of vagrancy. A man said to be living from the proceeds of their shame was also imprisoned. All of the parties were Japanese, their names being T. Shiovak (the man); Yaro Orama, Sano Hana, Uki Naki and Yono Ohama. Besides these there were four or five others who managed to elude the officers before their arrival, and got away. They were subsequently seen on the road into town, but it was not legally possible to arrest them on the warrant.

The raid was planned by a number of residents who have been complaining of the close proximity of a tawdry district to their homes. The grievance is already before the board of supervisors and will come up tomorrow in connection with the saloon on Cherry and Railroad avenues.

After securing palpable evidence, a complaint was filed before Judge Smith and a warrant given to Constable Dumas to serve. That officer requested Deputy Sheriff Hutchinson and Deputy Constable Charles Moore to aid him in making the raid. On their arrival it was found that the Japanese had received warning from some source and were already on their way to town.

One of the Japanese told Constable Moore that he had been informed by O. E. Kunde, formerly a deputy constable, that a raid was contemplated. The Japanese had received his information in the afternoon. Moore and Kunde met near the spot at about 5 o'clock in the evening and Kunde, it is alleged, grew grossly abusive to the other, charging him with engineering the coming raid and being a disturber of the conditions. Moore will swear out a warrant for his arrest this morning, and Kunde will have to answer a charge of disturbing the peace.

It is supposed that Kunde was on or near the office of the justice of the peace when the warrants were issued and went hurriedly back to warn the denizens of the district. He is said by the residents of the neighborhood to be in sympathy with the women, and it was for that reason that he was deposed from office as deputy to Constable Dumas and Moore appointed in his stead.

No women were found in or about the roadhouse, but there is a rumor to the effect that some of the residents are thinking about suing the place for damages for deterioration of the value of their property by countenancing and encouraging lewdness and immorality on the premises. Sixteen witnesses have gathered together to testify, among them being two sisters, named Dougherty, who have been identified with the locality in a manner not to their credit.

Y. M. C. A. ROOF PARTY AN ENJOYABLE AFFAIR

Music, Games and General Fun Making While-Away Pleasant Evening.

Two hundred young people enjoyed the social and roof party given jointly by the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. at the Y. M. C. A. building last night.

The evening's entertainment was begun with a musical and literary program given on the first floor. The mandolin club rendered the opening and closing selections, Dr. Williams and Miss Leola Schaefer sang and Miss Pearl Brooks recited a humorous piece. The remainder of the evening was taken up with various contests which were carried on to the amusement of the crowd. On the first floor was a ball of twelve half unwound and stuffed with paper, and the contestants were required to guess the number of feet it contained. Sig Levy was the lucky man here, coming within two feet of the right length. Miss Alice Lamkin won a contest for ladies only, in which the contestants were required to draw a line sixteen inches long.

On the second floor Miss Leola Schaefer was the successful winner of a ladies' contest at throwing a ball at a spot on the wall. Miss Scott looked into the future of the guests by reading their palms, and a magic lantern performance furnished fun.

Refreshments were served on the roof. Dr. Ruth was the master of ceremonies and the musical program was in charge of Herbert Levy. Harry Jimenez was chairman of the entertainment committee, Ned Prescott and Miss Alice Lamkin were at the head of the reception committee and Clinton Miller and Miss E. Nelson were responsible for the refreshments.

The Y. M. C. A. expects to give the largest social of the year early next month. It will be in the nature of a house warming, to which the public will be invited.

DEATH ENDS LIFE OF MENTAL DARKNESS.

After spending the declining years of his life in mental darkness, A. J. Corey died several days ago in the Stockton asylum. The deceased has relatives in this vicinity, and the remains were shipped here yesterday, being received by Shannon & Beall, in whose undertaking parlors they remained until arrangements were made for the interment.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon from the Adventist church. The dead man was 74 years of age and was a well-known and respected man in his community. With the coming of advanced years his mind became enfeebled and it was necessary to remove him to the asylum.
